OPEN BATTLE IS IMMINENT FOR AUSTRIA

Von Starhemberg Beginning In Earnest to Work for Fascist Rule

THREATENS ACTION BY THE HEIMWEHR

VIENNA, May 14 (AP).—An open conflict between the Government of Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg and the Heimwehr, private army of Prince Ernst Von Starhemberg, ousted suddenly as Austria's Vice-Chancellor and "semi-dictator," was a possibility tonight.

"The real contest is just starting," the deposed Vice-Chancellor asserted, as he left to attend a sports event in Rome.

NO IDLE WORD

"When I said recently my Heimwehr would be pushed out of the picture only over my dead body, I meant just that.

"In about a week, the world will hear from the Heimwehr."

At the same time a more democratic trend, one away from Fascism, was indicated by Schuschnigg's new Government—a trend directly contrary to the Fascist Heimwehr principles.

A source close to the Government said Chancellor Schuschnigg and Fanz von Papen, German minister to Austria, discussed at length today the possibilities of improving the embittered relations between Germany and Austria.

OBSTACLE REMOVED

This source said one German condition for a rapprochement was

EIGHT CONVICTS STILL AT LARGE

Two Kidnapped Guards Released—One Shot in Neck May Die

ANTLERS, Okla., May 14 (AP).—Two prison guards and a farmer were released alive near here tonight by fugitive convicts, four of whom were being trailed closely by a posse of officers, who said they were only "ten minutes" behind the fugitives.

The men released were Tuck Cope and Victor Conn, guards, and Wilburn Doaks, farmer, who lives near Pittsburg.

Cope, shot through the neck, was in a critical condition. The other two were uninjured.

The three, shouting: "We're guards, don't shoot," ran around the corner of a farmer's house near here late tonight into a crowd of Antler's citizens, who had been attracted to the scene by shots officers had fired at four of the fleeing convicts.

FORCED TO ABANDON

The four convicts speeding away from the car they stole there, were forced to abandon it a short distance away when officers showered them with bullets.

The quartette and four other convicts, who fled in separate directions, were all who remained at large after yesterday's bloody break of twenty-four inmates from the penitentiary brickyard.

The four convicts, believed leaders of the break, picked up the young farmer, Wilburn Doaks, as he stumbled upon their hiding place at dusk yesterday. Forcing him into their commandeered automobile with the kipnapped guards, Cope and Conn, the fugitives headed for the mountains, east of the prison.

Three Hurt on Way to Funeral

ROSETOWN, Sask., May 14 (CP).—Suffering severe injuries when their car overturned on the highway eight miles south of Rosetown, C. F. Edwards, Mrs. Edwards and their daughter, all of Vancouver, were admitted to hospital here today.

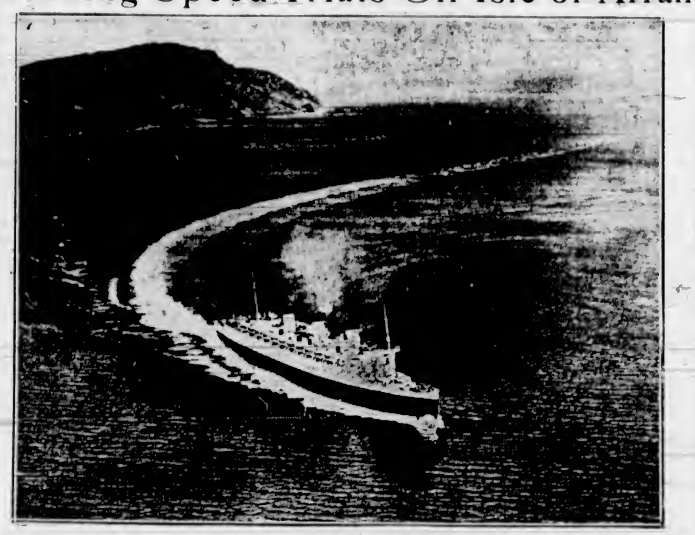

The family was going to Saskatoon to attend the funeral service for Mr. Edwards' father, W. A. Edwards, Sr., on Friday.

A rear tire blowout was given as the cause of the accident.

Troops Pouring Into North China to Support Independence Move

PEIPING, May 15 (CP-Havas).—Japanese and Manchukuan troops are pouring into North China to support a new Japanese-sponsored independence movement in Inner Mongolia, informed Chinese sources charged today.

Japanese spokesmen admitted 5,000 troops would arrive in a week or ten days to swell the Japanese garrisons in North China.

Prince Teh, titular head of Inner Mongolia, will be set up as head of the independent regime, it was predicted, with control of Suiyuan, Chahar and other Inner Mongolian territory southwest of Manchukuo.

Death Puts End To Fine Life of Famous Soldier

Viscount Allenby, Distinguished British General, Whose Restoration of Christian Sovereignty to Palestine Climaxed Brilliant Military Successes in Great War, Dies in London

LONDON, May 14 (CP).—Death closed today the brilliant career of Field Marshal Viscount Allenby, conqueror of Jerusalem, who restored Christian sovereignty in the Holy Land after nearly seven centuries of Moslem domination.

The great soldier collapsed shortly after noon at the writing desk in the study of his house in South Kensington, and died almost immediately. He was seventy-five.

Lord Allenby was a courageous, tireless soldier, who will be remembered in history as the last general to achieve victory by means of the mounted arm. With British and Indian cavalry he swept around the flank of the Turks in Palestine and attacked their rear, completely destroying the opposing army as a fighting force.

GREATEST SUCCESS

This flanking movement with masses of cavalry along the seashore and across the Turkish lines of communication to Damascus was regarded as the greatest military success attained by the Allies throughout the war.

Allenby commanded the third

NEW POST FOUND FOR EX-VICEROY

Earl of Willingdon Is Appointed Warden of Cinque Ports on Return From India

LONDON, May 14 (CP).—The Earl of Willingdon tonight was appointed warden of Cinque Ports, a position of considerable dignity, carrying comfortable emoluments and residence at Dover Castle.

Lord Willingdon returned from India ten days ago after five years as Viceroy. Two days ago it was announced the King had conferred a marquessate on him.

As warden of Cinque Ports, the former Governor-General of Canada succeeds the late Marquess of Reading, himself a former Viceroy of India.

The Cinque Ports — originally Hastings, Romney, Hythe, Dover and Sandwich, but now including other "ancient towns" of the south coast of England—are a league enjoying

North Sea Refloated After Grounding and in Safe Shelter at Hunter Bay

FOG IS PROBABLE CAUSE OF MISHAP

SEATTLE, May 14 (AP).—The coast guard cutter Alert wirelessed tonight that 111 passengers and thirty members of the crippled steamer North Sea's crew were returned aboard the vessel, which was anchored in Hunter Bay, Prince of Wales Island, Alaska.

With pumps gaining on water in the hold, the North Sea appeared to be in no danger in the quiet bay about twenty-two miles from Marsh Point, where the ship ran aground in a dense fog early this morning.

The Alert was standing by.

REACH DESTINATION

Taking off 143 passengers and less than half of the crew, the Alert today disembarked sixteen passengers at their destination of View Cove and six others at Rose Inlet on Dall Island, to the westward of Prince of Wales.

It was expected the North Sea, with the cutter escorting, would proceed towards Ketchikan before morning. This depended on the arrival of pumps which a boat was

DIARY REVEALS LONG HARDSHIP

Soviet Flyer Lived Forty-Five Days After Crash in Arctic Wastes

MOSCOW, May 14 (AP).—A diary found near the body of a Soviet flyer disclosed today he had lived for forty-five days after his airplane crashed in a barren peninsula near the Bering Strait only to succumb to cold and starvation.

Discovery of the wreckage solved the mystery of an airplane with a crew of three which had been missing for nearly five months.

COMPANIONS FEARED DEAD

The body was that of a mechanic named Bogdacheffsky. His companions, G. Volobuyeff, head of the Chukhotski Aerial Group, of the Northern Sea Route Department, and Pilot Butorin had left twenty-seven days after the crash to try to reach aid. They had not been heard from and presumably perished.

The three had taken off from Cape Vankaren, December 19, on a 125-mile hop to Cross Bay, but did not reach it.

HIT MOUNTAIN TOP

In the tent where Bogdacheffsky's diary was found searchers came across a statement signed by the three aviators explaining the plane crashed when the wing hit a mountain top. None of the three was injured in the crash.

Caught Rattler Well Out at Sea

CLEARWATER, Fla., May 14 (CP).—The rattlesnake that State Attorney Chester D. McMullen caught was a long way from home. McMullen snared it with a fishing line a quarter-mile from shore in Clearwater Bay while he was on a deep-sea fishing expedition. The state attorney collected a $2 bounty for the snake, which was five feet long.

Ottawa River Is Rapidly Nearing Flood Peak Level

OTTAWA, May 14 (CP).—Anxiety grew tonight as flood waters of the Ottawa and Gatineau Rivers continued to rise, forcing fifteen families to evacuate homes at Gatineau Point, Que., near here. Level of the Ottawa River was withjn two feet of the 1928 flood peak.

DUCE'S WORD IRREVOCABLE

Italian Chamber Ratifies Decree Annexing Ethiopia—Russia Wants Action

ROME, May 14 (AP).—Premier Mussolini told the Chamber of Deputies that Italy's empire proclamation is "irrevocable."

The deputies then unanimously ratified the new empire decree announced Saturday by Il Duce. It annexes Ethiopia and makes Marshal Pietro Badoglio viceroy of Ethiopia.

Count Costanzo Ciano, president of the chamber, concluded the session by saying, "Italy, with her arms in readiness, has changed her fighting front—she is now attacking the front of labor."

Il Duce was not in the bubbling good humor which marked his recent public appearances. His mood appeared black.

GENEVA, May 14 (AP).—Russia pressed Great Britain tonight to take one of two positions on sanctions against Italy, League of Nations sources reported.

Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet foreign commissar, urged Anthony Eden, British Foreign Secretary, to consider these two definite stands.

TWO ALTERNATIVES

Abandon sanctions against Italy and wipe the slate clean for reorganization of the league.

Lead the move for drastic enforcement of new and more effective penalties against Italy.

The conversation between Litvinoff and Eden was one of several as delegates remained in Geneva after the League Council had adjourned until June 16.

SENATE PASSES INSURANCE BILL

Committee to Study Bill to Establish Free Ports In Canada

OTTAWA, May 14 (CP).—The Senate today gave third reading to a measure amending the Canadian and British Insurance Companies Act. Initiated in the Upper House, the bill will be sent to the House of Commons for its consideration.

One amendment affects provincial insurance companies holding Dominion licences. Policy-holders in these companies will participate in company profits to an extent of at least 90 per cent. This provision is similar to the one now applicable to Dominion companies. No debate developed when Senator P. B. Black (Conservative, Sackville) made his motion for final reading of the bill.

TO CONSIDER FREE PORTS

A special committee of eleven was set up to consider the bill of Senator J. P. B. Casgrain (Liberal, Montreal) for establishment of "free ports" or free foreign trade zones in Canada. The body will be composed of Senators Casgrain, J. H. Rainville (Conservative, Montreal), William Duff (Liberal, Antigonish-Guysboro), C. W. Rodinson (Liberal, Moncton), Thomas Cantley (Conservative, Pictou), George H. Barnard (Conservative, Victoria), J. E. Sinclair (Liberal, Prince Edward Island), J. H. King (Liberal, Victoria) and C. P. Beaubien (Conservative, Montreal).

SCHOONER HAS DISASTROUS TRIP

Storm-Battered Vessel Reaches St. John's With One Dead and Two Missing

ST JOHN'S, Nfld., May 14 (CP).—Her flag at half-mast, the storm-battered French schooner Cote Demerande sailed into St John's today to report one of her crew dead, two others missing and a fourth injured.

While repairs were being made to a broken windlass and damaged dories, the skipper told of a disastrous trip to the Grand Banks.

One member of the crew died aboard ship, and two others, out fishing in a dory, had gone astray in the fog.

Although the Cote Demerande searched for two days no trace of the missing men was found.

Mrs. Mary M. Sutherland, of Wells, B.C., an Expert on Farm Problems, Is Only Woman on National Commission—Three Businessmen And Labor Representative Appointed

Chairman Appeals to Public For Nationwide Co-operation

OTTAWA, May 14 (CP).—A seven-member national employment commission was announced tonight by Labor Minister Norman Rogers. Headed by Arthur B. Purvis, Montreal, the commission personnel includes three business men, a representative of labor, a former newspaperwoman, a university professor and a Saskatchewan farmer.

The commission slate: Arthur B. Purvis, Montreal, chairman; A. N. McLean, Black's Harbor, N.B.; Alfred Marois, Quebec; Tom Moore, Ottawa; Mrs. Mary M. Sutherland, Wells, B.C.; W. A. Mackintosh, Kingston, Ont., and E. J. Young, Dummer, Sask.

TO SEEK ACTUAL FACTS

Its purpose, according to Chairman Purvis, is to try and put people to work. Its first function will be to try and get at the actual facts in respect to unemployment in Canada. Its first meeting will probably be held in about a week, when plans will be made for carrying on the work. It will work in close co-operation with the Department of Labor.

"I have great confidence in this new venture in nation-wide co-operation as an approach to stubborn economic problems," the Minister said. "The personnel of the commission has been selected with the utmost care. Each member will be able to contribute a specialized fund of knowledge and experience to the study of the complex problem of unemployment and relief. The chairman and members of the new commission may be assured from the outset of the full co-opration of the Department of Labor."

ISSUES STATEMENT

The chairman issued this statement:

"The National Employment Commission has been set up by the Government to bring about the re-employment of those who would

RESCUERS IN NEED OF AID

Men Attempting to Help Injured Aviator Exhausted In Mountains

NORTH BEND, Wash., May 14 (AP).—Two Civilian Conservation Corps men staggered into North Bend late today to ask for aid for a rescue party, exhausted, out of food and menaced by snowslides as it toiled to rescue Jay Graybill, injured Seattle flyer, and recover the body of his mechanic, Arne Wells, after an airplane crash Tuesday.

State patrolmen rushed emergency rations to the rescue party after the C.C.C. men said, "They can hardly make it. They're exhausted and the food supply has run out." They added that Coroner Otto H. Mittelstadt, a member of the party, sent word back that even if they reached the scene tonight, the return cannot be made before late tomorrow.

INJURED SERIOUSLY

Graybill was injured seriously and his companion killed while attempting to drop food and other supplies to an isolated mining camp.

"Some of the men have worn out their shoes and the slides were holding us back," the men reported. This morning, they said, the party fought their way up a precipitous path in the Great Bear Basin, plowing through mud and rain-soaked snow ten feet deep. The party was still three miles from the mine when the two C.C.C. men went for food and assistance.

May Attempt Daring Flight Around World

BURBANK, Cal., May 14 (CP).—Aviation circles speculated today whether Amelia Earhart would try to fly solo around the world in four long hops.

The famed woman aviator has a new low-wing monoplane, crowded with special equipment and fuel tanks, nearly ready for long-distance flights.

Dubbed a "flying laboratory," the new ship has a cruising radius of 4,500 miles when loaded with 1,200 gallons of gasoline and seventy-five gallons of oil. Wings are equipped with de-icers.

DRUGGED AND ROBBED BY BOGUS CONTRACTOR

VANCOUVER, May 14 (CP).—Police today were searching for several men who attacked John Rosendahl and robbed him of $20. Harry Lesuk, in a belated report, told police he was drugged and robbed of $45 on Tuesday night by a man who posed as a contractor hiring men.

GUNMAN ADMITS ENTERING HOME

Jack King Limps Into Court And Pleads Guilty to First Charge

Jack King pleaded guilty yesterday morning, in the city police court, to the charge of having broken into the home of Charles F. Todd, 104 St. Charles Street, by night, for the purpose of committing an indictable offence. Given the option of summary trial before the magistrate or trial in the higher court if committed, the accused hesitated for a few moments before he agreed to take summary trial before the magistrate.

C. L. Harrison, city prosecutor, asked for a remand until this morning, in order to go into the record of the accused.

The accused entered court in spite of the bullet wound inflicted in his right leg by Constable Louis Callan, who arrested him Wednesday night while the twenty-year-old youth was in the act of ransacking the upstairs rooms of the Todd home. Constable Callan was the subject of praise about the police station yesterday, following his plucky arrest of the accused.

HAD STOLEN GUN

King, by a strange coincidence, was armed with a revolver which had been stolen from the home of Hon. W. G. McQuarrie, of the Court of Appeal. During the time that His Lordship was in Victoria at the sitting of the Court of Appeal in February last, his home in New Westminster was entered and robbed. Among the missing things was a revolver, and the Provincial Police were able, from their records, to identify the weapon carried by King, as the one that belonged to His Lordship.

When asked about the stolen weapon yesterday, Mr. Justice Mc-

Amendments to B.N.A. Act Would Empower Dominion Guarantees

Conservative Leader Warns Against Giving Provinces Partial Control of Indirect Taxation Through Sales Levy in Opening Debate

OTTAWA, May 14 (CP).—A Government resolution to amend the British North America Act to empower the Dominion to guarantee Provincial borrowings under certain conditions and to extend to them power to collect sales taxes was introduced in the House of Commons today.

The proposed amendments to the Constitution were upheld by Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Justice, and attacked by former Secretary of State Cahan.

Mr Bennett led the attack on the proposed changes. He said the financial relations between the Dominion and provinces as established at Confederation were delicate and complex. There should be deep study and careful examination before upsetting them.

TO EMBARK ON PUBLIC WORKS

New Zealand to Spend Large Sum on Three-Year Programme

WELLINGTON, May 14 (CP).—A three-year programme of public works to cost £17,500,000 was announced by R. Semple, Minister of Public Works, in the New Zealand House of Representatives today.

The scheme will replace the existing unemployment relief works that cost approximately £4,000,000 annually. The basic wage for laborers will be 16 shillings daily, with a five-day week of forty hours.

CONTROL OF MARKETING

Meanwhile the Legislative Council, the Upper House, passed the Primary Products Marketing Bill, giving the Government virtual control of the marketing of dairy produce after rejecting a proposal that a plebiscite of the Dominion's farmers on the question be held. The bill had already been passed by the House of Representatives.

NO PRICE INCREASES

Prime Minister Michael Savage announced the Board of Trade Act would be invoked if necessary in order to prevent an increase in prices as a result of the granting of higher wages to workers. The Government aimed at increased buying power, Savage said, which could not be achieved if costs were raised in exactly the same proportion at the same time.

HAS AMPLE TIME TO BREAK RECORD

Vast Crowd Assembles to Greet Mrs. Mollison but Aviatrix Lands in Austria

LONDON, May 14 (CP).—A crowd of 10,000 assembled at Croydon Aerodrome tonight hoping to see Amy Johnson Mollison complete a record-breaking flight from South Africa, but turned away disappointedly when news came that she had been forced to land at Graz, Austria.

Mrs. Mollison left Athens announcing she would fly nonstop to Croydon, smashing by more than two days the Capetown-London record set by Lieutenant Tommy Rose. She ran into bad weather over the Alps, however, and landed at Graz, 800 miles from London.

She will continue tomorrow. She has until about 2 a.m. Sunday morning to break the record.

Little Theatre Has Large Audience at Memorial Hall Play

Archie McCorkindale Directs Merton Hodge's Production, "The Wind and the Rain"—Scenes Laid in Scottish City Medical College

VICTORIA Little Theatre Association's presentation of the Merton Hodge play, "The Wind and the Rain," attracted an audience that filled nearly every available seat in Memorial Hall last evening. It was under the patronage of Mayor and Mrs. David Leeming.

By clever direction, Archie McCorkindale showed what could be accomplished with the minimum of scenery. Although action dragged slightly in the first act, interest deepened in act two. Throughout the entire production, it was impossible to guess the sequel until shortly before the curtain was rung down. Particularly realistic rain effects were achieved by the stage crew.

The play opened with Charles Trent, a newcomer to a medical college in a Scottish city, meeting Gilbert Raymond and John Williams, senior students, in Mrs. McFie's boarding house. Raymond is a typical loud-voiced collegian, scintillating with satire and full of self-assurance. They are joined by Dr. Paul Duhamel, an under-graduate, who seeks to assuage Trent's loneliness with his philosophy of life.

MEETS NEW GIRL

Trent later meets Anne Hargreaves, an art student, and soon becomes fond of her. He does not forget, however, that he still has a sweetheart, Jill Mannering, who resides with his mother. Trent becomes a frequent visitor to Ann's studio, where he forgets his loneliness and she fills him with ambition to catch up to Raymond and Williams in his studies.

In act two, two and one-half years later, Trent is deeply engrossed in his studies, interrupted by persiflage from Raymond, who is getting ready for the college dance. Jill unexpectedly arrives with a friend, Roger Cole, and after a few rounds of Roger's potent cocktails they all leave for the dance, except Trent.

Anne drops in on Trent. She tells him there is a man in New Zealand whom she loves, but both decide to skip the future and make the most of the present. Roger and Jill return from the dance, with Jill much the worse for wear. Jill leaves in a huff, but it does not disturb Trent.

FINAL EXAMINATION

Trent, Raymond and Williams are shown in act three anxiously awaiting news of the final examination results. Anne arrives to hear the result. Word is received that Trent and Williams have passed, but Raymond has to sit for one more examination. Raymond and Williams leave to celebrate. Anne tells Trent she is going home, and that she had stayed in the college town a year longer than she intended to in order to wait for his graduation. There is a sad ending to the romance.

Receiving word that his mother is desperately ill, Trent rushes to London. Anne lends him the fare. Peter Morgan arrives at the college to study medicine and is met by Dr. Duhamel, back from the South Seas. Trent returns from London to see about an infirmary position. Duhamel tells Trent Anne did not go away, but he fails to reach her by telephone. Anne walks in and informs Trent she is returning home in a week's time. He convinces her he needs her for the rest of his life, and the play ends with them in a fond embrace.

Characters in the play were: Mrs. McFie, Miss Christine McNab; Gilbert Raymond, Harry Eke; John Williams, Ritchie Gatehouse; Charles Trent, William Findlay; Dr. Paul Duhamel, O. A. Gibbard; Anne Hargreaves, Miss Verna Beek; Jill Mannering, Miss Irene Williams; Roger Cole, Archie McCorkindale, and Peter Morgan, Harold Gelling. Leslie F. Lamb was production manager.

Music was furnished by Miss Sheila Conway, Christopher Miller and Herbert Botten.

normally be self-supporting were it not for the dislocation of trade.

"In recent years we as citizens have been far too prone to lean upon the Government for the solution of all our problems and have fallen into a habit of destructively criticizing the Government or the economic system—a course which can get us nowhere.

"Our Government believes, and the National Employment Commission believes, that Canadians are ready to move out of this atmosphere of doubt and criticism. More—that they are prepared to take their part in a nation-wide co-operative effort to face squarely the problems before us, and make such sacrifices as will bring about their solution.

PLEADS FOR CO-OPERATION

"With this end in view the National Employment Commission will seek the co-operation of every man and woman, young and old, in a team effort to win back for all the right to a true feeling of independence."

The name of Mr. Purvis had been announced some time ago by Prime Minister Mackenzie King. The names of the members were announced for the first time today. Mr. Purvis is president of Canadian Industries, Limited, Montreal.

A. Neil McLean, native of New Brunswick, was born in 1885 and is a banker, author and businessman. He spent fifteen years acquiring a knowledge of banking, first with the Bank of New Brunswick and later with the Bank of Nova Scotia. At present besides being the head of Connors Brothers, Ltd.'s, fish products business, he is also a director of the New Brunswick Publishing Company, the Maritime Trust Company and Scovil Brothers, Ltd.

LABOR REPRESENTATIVE

Labor will be represented on the commission by Tom Moore, known throughout the Dominion as a veteran trade unionist and authority on labor problems. Mr. Moore, now in his fifty-eighth year, has always been indentified with the labor movement and was president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada from 1918 to 1935, when he retired to accept an appointment to the Employment and Social Insurance Commission.

Previous to 1922, Mrs. Mary McCallum Sutherland was associated with The Grain Growers' Guide as associate editor. She was known throughout Western Canada as a speaker on farm problems at all of the grain growers' conventions and farmers' meetings held in the three Prairie Provinces.

RESIDES IN CARIBOO

She married Dr. Sutherland, of Shellbrook, Sask., and took up residence there. About three years ago the doctor moved from Shellbrook to Wells, British Columbia, and has been practising medicine in the mining districts, where Mrs. Sutherland and their family joined him.

In addition to his Queen's University work, Professor W. A. Mackintosh has taught school in Saskatchewan, worked for some months in the Department of Labor and in the Bureau of Statistics. He made a report for the registrar under the Combines Investigation Act into the operation of the Proprietary Articles Trade Association in 1926. Later he did special work for the tariff commission.

SASKATCHEWAN MEMBER

E. J. Young was born in Winnipeg in 1878. When he was five years old his father died. His mother took up the burden of breadwinner for the family until the children were able to fend for themselves.

He decided to go homesteading and filed on a quarter section in Southern Saskatchewan, thirty miles from the nearest town. When he could afford it, he bought a neighbor's homestead. Still later he purchased another quarter section. These three quarter sections constitute his present farm.

He was a member of the price Spreads and Mass Buying Commission, which conducted an exhaustive inquiry into Canada's economic problems since Confederation.

LOCAL LODGEMAN WILL BE HONORED

Robert Mackie to Receive High Rank From R.A.O.B. at Ceremonies Tomorrow

Robert Mackie, 968 Woodland Street, will be given the highest honor the Royal Antediluvian Order of Buffaloes can bestow on a member, when he receives the fourth degree or roll of honor at impressive ceremonies here tomorrow evening in the R.A.O.B. clubrooms on Langley Street.

Officials of the organization declared that there were only three other members holding this degree in Western Canada. Mr. Mackie's fine work in connection with lodge activities prompted the honor, they said. He is a member of Pride of Victoria Lodge, No. 4567.

Ceremonies will start at 6:30 p.m., and will continue until after 8 p.m. High executives and members of the Provincial Grand Lodge, and the Knights Chapter, of Vancouver, and members of the order aboard the Ms. Aorangi will be present to take part in the ceremonies.

Robert Matheson, who holds a high rank in the order in New Zealand, assisted by the provincial grand primo, A. G. Jacques, and the knight president, Samuel Smith, of Vancouver, will perform the main ceremonies.

Some twenty-five officials of the organization will take part in the colorful, secret rites, which include many mystic activities.

All local members of the R.A.O.B. are asked to be present.

CREEK CHANGES TO BE STUDIED

Estimates Will Be Obtained by Oak Bay Municipality on Watercourse

Oak Bay Council will consider the question of regrading Bowker Creek, including the lowering of the Cadboro Bay Road culvert, with the idea of relieving the flood situation for the city. The plan prepared by C. H. Topp in this regard is available with information on the subject.

At yesterday's meeting of the Oak Bay Council, the decision was reached that the first thing to do regarding the matter would be to ascertain the cost. This will be done.

Reeve Taylor suggested that something might be done in the way of lowering the base of the culvert by constructing really a second culvert below the present one. The superintendent of works considered this was feasible.

Superintendent Watt said that the cost of a new culvert was placed at about $700 or $800. The Topp report placed the cost of deepening the creek from Cadboro Bay Road to Hampshire Road at about $2,500, but this would depend upon just what was deemed necessary.

PRIVY COUNCIL ALLOWS APPEAL

Judgment Leaves Way Open To Litigation by Grand Trunk Stockholders

LONDON, May 14 (C.P.).—The Judicial committee of the Privy Council today allowed two appeals brought by George Lovibond, acting on behalf of a number of stockholders in the Grand Trunk Railway, whose properties were taken over by the Canadian Government fifteen years ago.

The significance of the judgment was indicated in Lord Russell's concluding declaration, in giving judgment, that Lovibond had failed in regard to the main object of his action which could now only proceed for the purpose—"whatever it might be worth"—of seeking to recover damages against the Grand Trunk or the Canadian National Railways.

MAY SEEK DAMAGES

(The Department of Justice at Ottawa interpreted the judgment as meaning that certain holders of common and preferred shares of the Grand Trunk had been refused their appeal to be permitted to proceed against the Attorney-General of Canada in the Ontario courts, but had been permitted to proceed in their claim for damages against the Grand Trunk and Canadian National Railways.

(R. Chawkin, who promoted the appeal on behalf of the stockholders, at London expressed the opinion that the decision leaves the way open for further litigation.)

PROPERTY PLANS ARE CONSIDERED

Oak Bay Council Deals With Various Matters Affecting Alterations in Municipality

Various matters affecting street improvements and septic tanks came before yesterday's meeting of the Oak Bay Council.

Councillor William Ellis reported upon his investigations into the widening of part of Beach Drive in front of the Rutherford, Pickles and Duke properties, and a solution seemed possible. The engineer was instructed to make a survey with an estimate of the costs.

The opinion of the municipal solicitors, Lawson & Davis, with respect to the right to convert the end of Foul Bay Road at the beach into a park, was that the matter would have to be dealt with jointly by Oak Bay and the city and that it would be necessary to find out whether an order in council would be forthcoming approving of the work. The city will be consulted in the matter.

Mary E. Spencer wished to have the question of a septic tank on King George Terrace cleared up, as there was a prospective builder who planned to erect a $7,000 residence if the matter was satisfactorily settled. The works committee was given power to act in the matter.

Victoria Rotary Club Hears Highlights of Vancouver District Conclave

Rotarians who attended the district convention at Vancouver last week gave a few highlights of the conclave during a meeting of the Rotary Club at the Empress Hotel yesterday. Herbert J. Pendray presided.

Samuel Armstrong told of talks by Stanley Long, district Rotary governor; Frank Cunliffe, Nanaimo; Dr. Paul Cadman, San Francisco; Thomas Davis, Butte, Montana, and Leon Ladner, K.C., Vancouver. He praised music furnished by Paul Michelin, an ex-Victorian; Mount Vernon Rotary Club boys and girls' band and Kitsilano Boys' Band. He said the Rotary division of six clubs, of which Victoria is part, was awarded second prize for 1936 attendance.

William F. Pinfold gave an account of an International Rotary Club meeting held at Rosarita, Mexico. He turned over a small Mexican flag to Mr. Pendray, presented to Victoria Rotary Club by those in Mexico.

PIONEERS GATHER

A Rotary pioneers' breakfast at the convention was described by James H. Fletcher. Every Rotarian was disguised with false whiskers, he said.

Frank Turley told of a visit to Newcastle Island by 1,500 delegates. He gave a brief account of the ceremony making Mr. Long a member of the local Indian tribe, and of an Indian wedding.

John V. Johnson, president of the Dominoes basketball team, gave his impressions of the team's Canadian tour. In thanking the Rotary Club for past courtesies, he said no finer group of athletes ever left the city or made such an impression as the Dominoes.

Pupils of Miss Violet Fowkes gave the following dance programme: Miss Dorothy Graham, Mexican tap dance; Miss June Gibson, tap dance and song; Miss Adeline Grant, Hungarian dance, and Miss Margaret Griffin, military tap dance.

Supply of Modern Small Homes Here Less Than Demand

Real Estate Men Report Increased Market as Depression Wanes—Duplex Houses Prove Popular—Urge City to Advertise Properties

By NEIL McKELVIE

"THE demand for modern five and six-room houses in Victoria exceeds the supply." That was the astonishing answer of the city real estate men to the question "What's new in the realty business?"

This information will, undoubtedly, cheer many Victorians, who have heard many woeful tales lately regarding the financial condition of the city and have been told that land has reverted to the city at an alarming rate.

According to real estate operators, Victoria's future is bright. The population seems to be increasing. More people are coming here to retire and, now that the depression is on the wane, families are finding it possible to spread themselves a little. No longer is it so necessary for families to double up and thus cut down housing costs.

DUPLEXES POPULAR

Once the pride of their owners, large homes of yesteryears are finding few tenants, whereas new, small duplexes are enjoying great popularity. Old homes remodeled into duplexes are drawing substantial returns for their owners, who previously regarded their buildings as liabilities.

While the City Council laments that the city now owns 60 per cent of the vacant property in Victoria and many houses, which means higher taxation on private owners, real estate men are calling in vain: "Advertise your city properties. Let the prospective buyers know of the many choice pieces of land up for sale and tell them of the various advantages of living in Victoria."

Speaking of the demand for homes in the city, one realtor stated: "Modern homes of five and six rooms are in so much demand that we had three calls yesterday, and could not supply them."

BETTER HOMES DESIRED

The same agent stated quite sincerely: "I believe, if I had 100 houses that were moderately priced, between $30 and $40 a month, with five or six rooms, that I could rent them within three days without going outside the office."

Another operator, in reviewing the situation, said he had never seen such a dearth of better modern homes than there was in Victoria.

Victorians, in the last decade or two, he explained, had lost sight of property and buildings as good investments and the result had been disastrous to the city. However, the realtor felt certain people were again turning their thoughts to this line of investment.

WATERFRONT VALUES

Several real estate men claim owners of old houses that are unrentable would be wise to tear them down and use the sites for new homes. In this way everyone would benefit. New homes would rent at a good fee and bring higher tax returns into the city treasury. And most important, less properties would revert to the city.

Visitors to the city have long pointed out the value of property along Dallas Road for building sites. The proper building of homes and summer camps and tourist bungalows along the waterfront would go far toward wiping out the annual deficit of Victoria.

Not only are the houses enjoying a run, but apartments are experiencing better business, and there is hardly a store to rent in the city business section. Rentals are on the uptrend. More business and professional men have come here of recent months and have taken up offices, while a few of the established firms have dropped out.

TOURIST SEASON

Furnished apartments and suites are due for fine business this Spring, Summer and Fall, as a result of the tourist traffic that is expected.

Better-class apartments are doing well, real estate men say. Enthusiastically they report that practically all the apartments in the Tweedsmuir Mansions, still in the process of being built, have already been rented.

All this augurs well for the city's future, realty firms declare.

Honker will answer Mr. Ryan's call from half a mile away if the wind is favorable, and will even oblige any press photographer who may wish to take a picture of Honker and his friend.

J. J. SEITZ IS IN CITY

Founded Underwood Typewriter Company Forty Years Ago

J. J. SEITZ

Forty years ago, J. J. Seitz, a commercial telegrapher who had fought his way up from penniless boyhood, began to suffer pain in his writing arm. Faced with the possibility of having to give up his means of livelihood owing to the trouble, the young man tried out an early typewriter, and after several months substituted it for his pencil. In a short time he heard of an advanced type of machine—the Underwood—and he went from Toronto to New York to see it.

On his return to Toronto his finances were depleted, but he carried papers showing he held the sole right to sell Underwood typewriters in Canada and England. Thus the great typewriter organization of Underwood Elliott Fisher, Limited, was started by Mr. Seitz on May 1, 1896. The weekly payroll was then $17, no employees and one office. Today the weekly payroll is $21,250; there are 900 employees in the twenty-one branch offices and factories.

BUSINESS BETTER

Mr. Seitz, at the Empress Hotel yesterday, appeared to have prospered in health through the years just as his company has in business.

On this, his twenty-eighth trip to Victoria, the executive reports: "From Toronto to Victoria I find a distinct improvement in general business since my last year's trip.

"Our own business shows an increase of 22 per cent for March, compared with the same month in 1935," he continued. "This improvement is naturally reflected in the amount of employment we are able to provide. We have increased our personnel 25 per cent, operating our factory in Toronto, and twenty-one sales branches. We employ 600 people in the sales end of the business and 300 in the manufacturing end.

"In the process of putting an Underwood typewriter on the market, 30 per cent of the parts we use are actually manufactured here, and 65 per cent of the whole work of manufacturing and assembling is done by Canadian workmen, using Canadian materials. Thus ours may well be called a Canadian industry."

ANNIVERSARY DINNER

Mr. Seitz also told of the great dinner tendered him by the company on the anniversary. Six hundred employees, a number of whom had been with the company thirty years, gathered in the King Edward Hotel in Toronto. Mayor Samuel McBride was present and commented on the notable contributions made by Mr. Seitz to the life of Toronto and the Dominion. Mr. Seitz' company has been instrumental in placing over half a million persons into positions.

At this same dinner, his son, Ernest Seitz, well-known musician and composer of the famed Canadian ballad, "The World Is Waiting for the Sunrise," played the composition for the first time before an audience. It was a tribute to Mr. Seitz, Sr.

GIVEN MEMENTO

Last night at the Empress Hotel he showed newspapermen a large volume presented to him on the anniversary occasion. Following an illuminated address from the employees throughout Canada to its founder, the book comprised full-page photographs of each branch office, factories and distributing offices, including members of the staff. On the page facing each photograph members had inscribed their names. Mr. Seitz prizes the memento highly.

During his ten-day visit here the typewriter company executive will pay visits to all commercial schools and colleges in the city. Young people have always been a hobby with him, and he has two messages for them. One is that they have more opportunities to make good today than their parents had. The other is: "Gain a good knowledge of English, accounting, shorthand and typing, and you have everything you need to make yourself a success. There is plenty of time to learn other things, but you must have a commercial training to enter business."

Mr. Seitz, yesterday, conferred with Miss S. E. Craig, manager of the local branch.

INQUIRE INTO CELEBRATION

Expenses of Radio Commission at Station Opening Discussed at Inquiry

OTTAWA, May 14 (CP).—Expenses of members of the radio commission and particular inquiries about a celebration at the opening of the new commission station in Quebec created a lively interlude at today's session of the parliamentary committee on broadcasting.

Vincent Dupuis (Liberal, Chambly) examing Hector Charlesworth, commission chairman said he had been told that approximately $400 had been spent for champagne at the Quebec affair and that a member of the commission had refused to sign the minutes of a meeting dealing with the account.

NAMES FORMER MEMBER

Pressed for the name of his informant, Mr. Dupuis said it was Jacques Cartier, a former member of the commission who resigned last Fall.

"Mr. Cartier, if he said that, is a liar," Mr. Charlesworth declared.

Colonel W. A. Steele, a member of the commission, also gave evidence on station facilities and coverage problems. With preference to the banquet incident he said Mr. Cartier was not a member of the commission at the time, but had been appointed when the account came for settlement. He had refused to sign approval because he had not been a member of the commission when the account was incurred.

OTHER WITNESSES

Other witnesses today included Rev. Sedgewick, Toronto, representing Canadian broadcasters, R. W. Ashcroft, veteran radio executive of Toronto, representing himself alone, and W. T. Burford, representing the All-Canadian Congress of Labor.

OPEN BATTLE IN AUSTRIA IMMINENT

the ousting of Nazi-hating Von Starhemberg from the Cabinet, and that with his departure a major obstacle had been removed.

The Heimwehr spokesman said his organization would drive relentlessly toward its goal, despite Von Starhemberg's expulsion from the Government.

"Within a few days the world will know what Von Starhemberg meant when he said the Heimwehr, which twice saved the independence of Austria, will be shorn of its influence only over his dead body," the spokesman added.

CHANCELLOR CONFIDENT

But at the Chancellery, Schuschnigg, who holds four portfolios in his new Government, radiated confidence as he set up a regime inclined toward liberality and democracy rather than Fascism.

He dispatched a message to Premier Mussolini, assuring him that Austria remains loyal to her "protector."

Chancellor Schuschnigg is making an effort to increase popular support of his regime, and it is apparent in this endeavor he has the support of the army, the clergy, many farmers, legitimists and business men weary of political turmoil.

CORNERSTONE REMAINS

Schuschnigg received several diplomats today, and explained to them no radical change in foreign relations is contemplated, with the Rome Pact remaining the cornerstone of policy.

Austria was quiet following the coup of the scholarly Schuschnigg, but also was tense.

ETHIOPIA'S FATE

Premier Stanley Baldwin says that ideals of the League Covenant remain the basis of British policy. There will be a move shortly to reform the League, to change, perhaps, its basis of action, without discarding its ideals, one purpose being to induce the United States to join, and secure the return to its councils of Germany and Japan. The former hope, that of including the United States, is unlikely to be realized. There is, however, a possibility that Japan and Germany will rejoin.

The prestige of the League has had a sad blow because of its attitude in the Italo-Ethiopian dispute. There is just one lesson to be derived from that happening, namely, that half measures to implement League ideals are hopeless. It would have been far better to hold out no hope to Ethiopia than such hope as failed to prevent a tragic disaster. The League should have done nothing at all or much more than it did do. Italy violated treaties in engaging in the war. In view of what transpired the Powers concerned could have revised the treaty which makes the Suez Canal open to all nations. Had it done so and closed the canal, the debacle in Ethiopia would never have happened and Italy could not have prosecuted her war. It is true that might have precipitated a European war, but it would have been one in which practically all the nations would have been opposed to Italy, and one which the latter country could not have prosecuted with any hope of success.

The Ethiopian affair has put before the world at large the penalty for interwoven sins of commission and omission. The League failed to forge a weapon to put its ideals into practice. It offered a mere gesture in limited sanctions because of treaty violation by one of its members. It could reach no conclusion for collective action to protect that member. Its protest against the use of mustard gas by the Italians was half-hearted and valueless, for the war was practically over before it was made. The truth of the matter is that the nations collectively who form the League of Nations feared the risks to which they would expose themselves by keeping faith completely. There is no other interpretation in their failure to do what they ought to have done if the Covenant of the League means what it implies.

The issue thus raised is fraught with tremendous possibilities for the future. If the League would not intervene on behalf of Ethiopia, a backward country and only one of its minor members, it will most assuredly, as at present constituted, fail to intervene where more powerful nations are concerned. That is the crux of the situation. It cannot prevent war by passing resolutions or by the imposition of economic and financial sanctions. All this is plainly demonstrated by the fate that has overtaken Ethiopia, and about which, even now, the League of Nations does not seem disposed to do anything.

VISCOUNT ALLENBY

No commander in the Great War won a swifter or more complete victory than the success achieved by Field Marshal Viscount Allenby in Palestine. It was easily the most brilliant and the best strategically planned of all the campaigns in that struggle, and for this an immense amount of credit is due to the commander who elicited world admiration for his feat of arms. Prior to being assigned to drive the Turks out of Palestine he had served with distinction on the Western Front. It was in Palestine, however, that he attracted such attention, because there was a glamor about the campaign there as it moved onwards from one historic spot to another in the Holy Land, culminating in the capture of Jerusalem. That campaign, with which the name of the late Lord Allenby will ever be linked, had a special significance for Christianity. It was regarded as a new crusade and was easily the most successful and the most permanent in its results of all directed towards the Holy Land from Europe.

Viscount Allenby was a cavalry officer, a silent soldier, one who in his inflexibility resembled the late Lord Kitchener. His war experience had been lengthy. He fought in the Bechuanaland, Zulu and South African campaigns, and at the outbreak of the Great War he was dispatched immediately to France in command of the cavalry with the British Expeditionary Force. Subsequently he commanded the Fifth Army and then the Third before being sent to Palestine. He will be long remembered in British military annals as a figure of the Great War, capable of swift and decisive action and also of high calibre as an executive, as he showed during his term as High Commissioner in Egypt.

PARK LANDS IN GREAT BRITAIN

The acquisition of Dovedale in Derbyshire as a national park is one of the proposals made for a suitable memorial to the late King. The Lord Mayor of Derby, contending that the "great King and his momentous reign require to be commemorated by something more national than an addition to London's statues," advocates as a fitting memorial, "a national park on the Pennine Range, the backbone of England, within reach of north and south, and containing a building capable of housing national and international conferences." Whatever may come of the worthy mayor's proposal, it will call fresh attention to the work of the National Trust, which already owns about five hundred acres in the Valley of the Dove, an area which is known as embracing some of the loveliest scenery in England.

The National Trust is a purely private body, as the then Prince of Wales reminded the public on its fortieth anniversary celebrated some months ago, whose object is the preservation of places of historic interest and natural beauty. It now controls 60,000 acres, either actually owned by the Trust or protected by covenants entered into with landowners, who pledge themselves against unsightly development. Properties are constantly being donated by interested citizens, and, in addition, timely gifts have been received from the Pilgrim Trust, a fund set up by an appreciative American. An anonymous donor, for example, recently provided for the acquisition of Aberglaslyn Pass in North Wales, and the view from the bridge which is known to so many visitors. This means that one of the most notable sections of the proposed national park in Snowdonia, some four hundred acres in all, will be preserved for all time.

Much of the lovely Lake District is coming into the hands of the Trust. Buttermere, Crummock Water, and Loweswater, with more than 1,300 acres of wood and other lands, are already secured. A present has been made of 220 acres of Yorkshire moorland on Scarth Wood Mead, near Northallerton. Mow Cop, known as the "Mecca" of Primitive Methodism, because it was the site of the first camp meeting on British soil, has been donated by a Methodist preacher. Historic and picturesque Glencoe in Argyleshire, with its tragic associations of the massacre of M'Ian and the Clan Macdonald in 1692, and the grandest and wildest glen of the Western Highlands, is now safe from commercialized invasion. This property once belonged to Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal.

The latest expansion of the National Trust looks towards saving the historic country houses of England, which, for economic reasons, are threatened with extinction. The heavy death duties on estates are compelling owners to sacrifice these "stately homes of England" and their valuable collections. The scheme is to open these houses to visitors at certain times for an admission fee. One object is to encourage people to become familiar with and to appreciate the beauty of English domestic architecture. The great collections of Castle Howard, Chatsworth, Knowle and similar mansions might thus be preserved. In France more than 150 private chateaux are open to the public under the direction of La Demeure Historique, a society formed some ten years ago. The National Trust, now forty years old, has acquired a momentum that will ensure the retention of a widening area of British beauty spots for the benefit of the appreciative public.

TWENTY MILES AN HOUR

Mr. Max Beerbohm says that the Press is constantly urging people to be "traffic conscious," and he wonders how could they be otherwise. They are "concussion-apprehensive" and "annihilation-evasive," and he asks when the children of this generation, brought up in fear, shall have become adult, what sort of nervous ailments will their progeny have? He admits that many of the present children will not grow up at all because very young people and very old people form the majority of those who are annually slaughtered on the roads. The root of the whole problem Mr. Beerbohm sees in "speed." Motorists, he says, are going too fast. "It would be unreasonable to expect them to impose on themselves a speed limit of twenty miles an hour; but this is the limit which should—and sooner or later will be—enforced on them. Whether this slowing down of traffic will cause a great or a small loss of national income is, I am told, a point on which expert economists are not agreed. What is certain is that it will save annually a vast number of lives."

One of the fallacies in the principle of justice in the United States is that often enough a man is presumed guilty before he is tried. When Alvin Karpis was rounded up in an apartment house in New Orleans by sixteen armed men, Mr. J. Edgar Hoover, head of the United States Federal Police Force, said: "Karpis said he'd never be taken alive, but we took him without firing a shot. That marked him as a dirty, yellow rat." Had such a statement emanated from Scotland Yard after a capture, whoever was responsible for it would have been speedily dismissed from the force.

Speech is too often not, as the Frenchman defined it, the art of concealing thought, but of quite stifling and suspending thought, so that there is none to conceal.—Carlyle.

Note and Comment

By R. B. D.

Avoid shame, but do not seek glory—nothing so expensive as glory.—Sydney Smith.

Mussolini has added a slice of the dark continent of Africa to the bootleg in Europe which is called Italy and boldly proclaims that he has re-established the Roman Empire. But the old Caesars when they went forth to conquer not only chose "foemen worthy of their steel"; they selected parts of the world which it would be profitable to plunder after they had been conquered; they enriched Rome with the spoils of many nations. Just as it has been said that all roads lead to Rome, so it was that a great part of the wealth of the world enriched Rome.

The modern Caesar has this advantage over some of the ancient Caesars. The modern Caesar in his posings and theatricals, in his bombasts and his bluffs, is a very imposing figure. He imposes on the Italians, who delight in that sort of thing because of their intense emotions and their naturally artistic attributes. Some of the ancient Caesars were not exactly perfect physical figures. They were not good actors, but they were impressive in action. They may have boasted a bit, but they also did things. The things which Mussolini thus far has done will not add materially to the wealth of Rome or to the glory of the modern Roman Empire.

Shakespeare may have put words in the mouth of an illustrious Roman when he said of Julius Caesar that he was ambitious and pointed to the wounds which were the consequences of this ambition. No one has said yet that the ambition of the modern Caesar is to become the titular as well as the actual ruler of the imperial structure he has set up. The announced purpose of the dictator and conqueror of Abyssinia is to set up a throne in the capital of Ethiopia and have the new Emperor enthroned there with great pomp and impressive ceremony. But who shall set limits to the bounds of the ambition of an individual obsessed by visions of the glories of wars of aggression and the grandeur of conquest?

If the new Roman Empire is to be a reincarnation of the ancient Roman Empire, Italy has access to the Red Sea, and there are rich territories that may be reached from that sea. The path of the conqueror to the realms of glory may be barred in Europe, but the territory of Europe is small compared with the vaster territories in Africa and Asia. The imaginative correspondents declared that the conquest of Ethiopia was merely the first step in the grand march of Mussolini to greater and more profitable conquests. Italy in herself is not a rich country either actually or potentially. The little war with Haile Selassie already has dissipated the greater part of her accumulated wealth. The application of sanctions may not have affected the programme of the dictator, but it has seriously affected and materially lessened foreign trade. The women of Italy have responded to the emotional appeals of Mussolini by piling their treasures of gold and jewels into the national treasury and dedicating their sons as voluntary sacrifices to the voracious deity of war, but the fact remains that the common people of Italy, under a heavy and increasing load of taxation, are being impoverished, and that a time must come when there will be an accounting and the gains of victory will have to be weighed in the balance against the sacrifices of war.

Nevertheless the fact remains that thus far Mussolini has bluffed his way through in defiance of the hostile sentiment of the world and the futile protests of the League of Nations. According to our limited understanding of the game, other players have played the game Mussolini is playing. The game is dangerous unless there are occasions when the player holds the cards. The dictator is continuing his favorite method of play by withdrawing his representatives from meetings of the League. He is going to play the game according to his own hand. Sooner or later there must be a showdown.

The Italian delegates have gone back to Rome. The League will have a month's recess. Events will be permitted to shape their own course. But in the midst of seeming inactivity there will be activity. If the representatives of the nations which believe in the principles of peace in accordance with the will of the people are holding counsel together, it is safe to assume that the representatives of the nations which prefer arbitrary rule according to the whim of dictators are pondering over a situation which is critical in the highest degree. For the first time in the history of the conflict between might and right the forces of right have established themselves upon solid ground. Will they maintain that position or be bluffed out of it?

A Good Move

Victoria Athletic Club officials, we understand, are sponsoring the baseball school to be operated during the Summer months. The plan is certainly a step in the right direction, and if started a few years ago, Victoria would have some good baseball clubs today. However, we cannot bring time back, so let's forget the past, and cast our eyes to the future, and live in hopes that Victoria, once a popular baseball centre, will be back in the limelight in a few years. 'Tis then that we, along with other baseball fans, will stand right up and cheer for the Victoria Athletic Club and its baseball school.—S.T.

Government Extravagance

We read the following trite statement in a labor paper: "Because the average industrial, commercial or agricultural employee pays little in direct taxation, it is too often assumed he is not a substantial contributor to the cost of government. If workers in general realized how far this assumption is from the truth, they would be less complacent in the face of the rising tide of taxation and public debt. If the average Canadian knew how much it cost him every year to run the Government, there would soon be an end to the orgy of spending." . . . A correspondent objected to our dislike of the word "gotten," so we looked it up in the Dictionary of Modern English Usage. It said: "Gotten still holds its use in American English. In British English it is in verbal use." . . . A Toronto storekeeper could not understand why he was pestered all day long with salesmen. It took him several months to find out he was being used as an example by a nearby school for Lesson 16, "How to Approach a Difficult Customer." . . . The following farmer's psalm has been composed by a Keating fruitgrower: "Compulsory marketing is my shepherd, and I am in want. It compelleth me to cut down my production and leadeth me beside vacant farms, while it disrupteth my loyalty through bureaucracy. Yea, I walk through the valley of control and see no recovery, while a levy is prepared on my products in the presence of mine enemies. It anointeth my meager returns with more taxes, and my difficulties runneth over. Surely regulations and quotas shall follow me for all the days of my life, and I shall dwell in the house of compulsion for ever more."—G.B.

Any Old Dollar Looks Good

It looks like a race between the silver Jubilee dollar and this year's issue of the silver Canadian dollar carrying the head of the late King George V. Although many tens of thousands of these coins were issued by the Government, they are already becoming scarce. The banks have a few which they issue on request, but none are being handed back by the public. Where are they all going? Of course, today, the Jubilee silver dollar is as rare as an ultra-honest politician.—N.A.C.M.

'Twas More Than Freak

Talk about your freak golf shots. On Sunday a duffer we know initiately took a terrific cut at the ball from the eighteenth tee at Uplands. He "pushed" the ball over the fence, it bounced twice on the road, smashed into the windshield of an approaching car, broke the glass, and bounded back onto the fairway. Some shot, William.—W.J.H.

Ayes Have It

The difference between a politician and a statesman shows in the pronouns. The politician says to the people, "I did it." The statesman says, "You did it!"—S.G.

A man who had had a slight motoring accident and had sticking plaster on his nose as a result was called upon to interview the local income tax inspector.

"Had an accident to your nose," the latter asked, sympathetically, as he entered the room.

"No," said the taxpayer—"I've been paying through it for so long that it has given away under the strain."

FIFTY YEARS AGO TODAY

(From The Daily British Colonist of May 15, 1886)

Municipal Council—A special meeting was held last night with His Worship the Mayor and Councillors Robertson, Lassett, Vinelius Stripe, Grant, Higgins, Smith and Humber present. A communication from the Attorney-General was received, tendering the use of the gaol and barracks to the city as tenants at will, at five cents per week, also stating that he had instructed the penitentiary authorities not to receive any city prisoners who were sentenced to imprisonment with the option of a fine. After some business respecting the reserves, the council adjourned to Wednesday at 4 p.m.

Nanaimo Notes—The small steamer Yukon, with a party of nine prospectors for the Great Yukon River, arrived here Tuesday en route to Juneau City, from which place they will proceed to the reported diggings on Yukon River. J. W. Trutch, Dominion agent, accompanied by a Dominion engineer, went over the Island railway line from Nanaimo to Cowichan River on Saturday.

Baseball Match—A baseball game will take place this afternoon at 3 o'clock at Beacon Hill Park, between Victoria Athletic Club and Lansdowne Club. An exciting contest may be expected.

"PEACE AT ANY PRICE"

Sir,—In sending you copy of enclosed letter to Archdeacon Scott, a very old friend of mine, I would say that I know him so well that I am perfectly sure that he will approve of my asking for its publication, and of the use to which I am putting his splendid "Invocation to England," at a time when her "mighty soul" seems to need a rousing spur.

F. W. L. MOORE.

3249 Quadra Street, Victoria, B.C., May 12, 1936.

My Dear Scott:

Here's a text for your Muse from this morning's paper: "Ten of this city's leading youthful orators took part in the contest sponsored by the Victoria Branch of the League of Nations Society in Canada." Maintaining that Canada should preserve "Peace at Any Price," Bernard Ennals was awarded the right to represent Victoria at the Canadian Youth Congress in Ottawa from May 23 to 25, for his speech on "The Duty of Canadian Youth."

Some eighteen months ago you very kindly sent me (with permission to publish) your verses "To England," beginning:

"O mighty soul of England, rise in splendor
Out of the wrack and turmoil of the night,
And as of old compassionate and tender,
Uphold the cause of justice and of right."

Will you not now (in view of the world situation, with Italy, according to the League, in wrongful and illegal possession, and with England declaring in absolute futility that "Haile Selassie is still Ethiopia's Emperor") write for us an epitaph on "England's Departed Greatness?" It might be headed "How are the mighty fallen, and the weapons of war perished!" "Of him to whom much is given shall much be required"; and concluding with that Hebrew word of despairing sadness, "Ichabod." That might help us to forget your great lines:

"Thine was the call to face with dauntless bearing
All high adventure, all adversity."

and your final invocation:

"O Soul of England—England's great possession—
Lead thou mankind into the way of peace."

in the more popular thought, or obsession, or shall we call it "England's pusillanimous possession" of today—a "possession" by the twin evil spirits of opportunism and worldly fear?

Copies of such an epitaph will no doubt be highly appreciated by the Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin, Capt. Anthony Eden, and the Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King; nor will we forget the Canadian Youth Congress at Ottawa, and the Canadian delegation to the World Youth Congress at Geneva.

Yours faithfully (if in sorrow),

F. W. L. MOORE.

COMMUNIST PROPAGANDA

Sir,—I was very pleased to see that recently in your columns the true character of the League Against War and Fascism has been shown to the public by the well-informed letters of the members of the Youth Action Forum. As one very interested in the cause of peace, I have studied the teachings and activities of this league, and from this study have become convinced that it is a cleverly camouflaged Communist organization.

It may interest your readers to know that at the Moscow Comintern, the source of all Communist propaganda, these general tactics were decided on in 1928 (and I believe the League Against War and Fascism was started in 1929) to oppose all imperialist wars (not war, mark you, but only imperialist wars).

As I have gathered from studying the deliberations of that gathering, not because thereby they could stop an imperialist war, for, according to Marx and Lenin, this is inevitable. But so that in any country which went to war they may raise up a body of public opinion which will refuse to fight in such a war and will organize large strikes and so turn it into a civil war. When such a civil war is in progress, Russia may now probably help the rebels; for last year Stalin made this significant statement: "The Soviet armies are now so formidable that they are ready for the offensive."

The chief enemy, they stated, of Communism is Fascism and all Communists must fight Fascism wherever they meet it.

The undertakings on the card which all members of the League Against War and Fascism have to sign contain these two interesting items:

(a) "To assist anti-Fascist fighters in any country."

That, if it means anything, means that all enthusiastic members of this organization, if there were a rising in Germany, would have to go over and help the rebels. "This surely is aiding and abetting war, the worst kind of war, civil war, and might easily lead to international war. Civil war, as all students of history know, is a far more brutal thing than even international war. In this, this league is directly obeying Moscow.

(b) "To oppose the use of police in strikes."

Police are used in strikes to protect the law-abiding and non-violent workers from their violent comrades. Therefore, this league advocates putting the law-abiding at the mercy of the disruptive and violent. Also this is paving the way for revolutionary strikes and again directly obeying the Comintern.

Now, if anyone really wishes to prevent war, they can join the League of Nations Society, which works for world peace through constitutional channels. And if they wish to stop the growth of Fascism, they should oppose Communism; not support it.

Fascism is first and foremost the antidote of Communism. If there had been no Communism, there would have been no Fascism.

In Italy just after the war, Communism was very strong indeed. Many factories were taken over by the employees, the country suffered under continual strikes, and even the beginnings of a Red army were formed. To oppose this, Mussolini started his Fascists, and then all the independent-minded workmen and the bourgeois, to save themselves from the horrors of Communism, of which they had had some experience, supported him, and so enabled him to achieve control.

Just in the same way in Germany. It was the four million Communist votes in the 1930 elections which frightened the other electors and made them put Hitler into power. They realized the probability of Communism getting into power and so supported the far lesser evil of Nazism.

The way to stop Fascism from growing is to stop Communism from growing, and the way to stop Communism, which Lenin said must, if it is to succeed, ruthlessly and pitilessly eliminate the middle classes, from growing, is to make the rule of both our political and economic systems the golden rule, and to introduce a system which will distribute the goods which we now have in plenty to those who cannot buy them. This is also the path which will lead to international peace.

A. S. AVERILL.

URSUS KERMODEI

Sir,—Referring to the letters by T. A. Wilson and Dora Kitto, appearing in your issues of the 8th and 10th instant, it might be of interest to some of your readers to learn the circumstances under which Ursus Kermodei came to Victoria.

Ursus Kermodei belongs to a species found only in a small district on the British Columbia Coast, ranging from Nass River to South Bentinck Arm. They inhabit most of the large islands of the Northern Coast, with the exception of the Queen Charlotte group. Dr. W. T. Hornaday, in the report of the New York Zoological Society, January 10, 1905, says in part: "There is no escape from the conclusion that a hitherto unknown species of bear, of very small size, inhabits the west-central portion of British Columbia . . . The new species is named in honor of Mr. Francis Kermode."

When word got abroad that a new species of bear had been discovered, many foreign museums and zoos were anxious to procure specimens. As these animals are limited in number, the Provincial Government prohibited their exportation. In the Spring of 1924, a very young female was captured by an Indian on Princess Royal Island. The Indian sold her and the purchaser offered her for sale in the United States. The police got word of it, and after some months, discovered the bear hidden in Stanley Park, awaiting an opportunity of being sent out of the province. The cub was turned over to the Game Conservation Board and so became a ward of the Government. The authorities had three courses open to them: to return the bear to Princess Royal Island, where, owing to her long sojourn with human beings and her extreme youth at the time of her capture, she would probably have suffered; to destroy her or to keep her in captivity. They chose the latter course and she was sent over to the curator of the museum at Victoria. Arriving at Victoria, no convenient place to house her being available, she was turned over to the city, and temporary quarters, since improved, but still inadequate, were assigned her.

The question of procuring a mate, touched on by both correspondents, is open to objection. It would be almost impossible to capture a full-grown bear of this species. Presuming that the mate desired would be a male, there would be a further difficulty. The bears would have to be separated after mating, as the female would not tolerate the presence of one of the opposite sex and there would be for the greater part of the year two bears in solitary confinement instead of one as at present.

ETHIOPIA'S FATE

Premier Stanley Baldwin says that ideals of the League Covenant remain the basis of British policy. There will be a move shortly to reform the League, to change, perhaps, its basis of action, without discarding its ideals, one purpose being to induce the United States to join, and secure the return to its councils of Germany and Japan. The former hope, that of including the United States, is unlikely to be realized. There is, however, a possibility that Japan and Germany will rejoin.

The prestige of the League has had a sad blow because of its attitude in the Italo-Ethiopian dispute. There is just one lesson to be derived from that happening, namely, that half measures to implement League ideals are hopeless. It would have been far better to hold out no hope to Ethiopia than such hope as failed to prevent a tragic disaster. The League should have done nothing at all or much more than it did do. Italy violated treaties in engaging in the war. In view of what transpired the Powers concerned could have revised the treaty which makes the Suez Canal open to all nations. Had it done so and closed the canal, the debacle in Ethiopia would never have happened and Italy could not have prosecuted her war. It is true that might have precipitated a European war, but it would have been one in which practically all the nations would have been opposed to Italy, and one which the latter country could not have prosecuted with any hope of success.

The Ethiopian affair has put before the world at large the penalty for interwoven sins of commission and omission. The League failed to forge a weapon to put its ideals into practice. It offered a mere gesture in limited sanctions because of treaty violation by one of its members. It could reach no conclusion for collective action to protect that member. Its protest against the use of mustard gas by the Italians was half-hearted and valueless, for the war was practically over before it was made. The truth of the matter is that the nations collectively who form the League of Nations feared the risks to which they would expose themselves by keeping faith completely. There is no other interpretation in their failure to do what they ought to have done if the Covenant of the League means what it implies.

The issue thus raised is fraught with tremendous possibilities for the future. If the League would not intervene on behalf of Ethiopia, a backward country and only one of its minor members, it will most assuredly, as at present constituted, fail to intervene where more powerful nations are concerned. That is the crux of the situation. It cannot prevent war by passing resolutions or by the imposition of economic and financial sanctions. All this is plainly demonstrated by the fate that has overtaken Ethiopia, and about which, even now, the League of Nations does not seem disposed to do anything.

VISCOUNT ALLENBY

No commander in the Great War won a swifter or more complete victory than the success achieved by Field Marshal Viscount Allenby in Palestine. It was easily the most brilliant and the best strategically planned of all the campaigns in that struggle, and for this an immense amount of credit is due to the commander who elicited world admiration for his feat of arms. Prior to being assigned to drive the Turks out of Palestine he had served with distinction on the Western Front. It was in Palestine, however, that he attracted such attention, because there was a glamor about the campaign there as it moved onwards from one historic spot to another in the Holy Land, culminating in the capture of Jerusalem. That campaign, with which the name of the late Lord Allenby will ever be linked, had a special significance for Christianity. It was regarded as a new crusade and was easily the most successful and the most permanent in its results of all directed towards the Holy Land from Europe.

Viscount Allenby was a cavalry officer, a silent soldier, one who in his inflexibility resembled the late Lord Kitchener. His war experience had been lengthy. He fought in the Bechuanaland, Zulu and South African campaigns, and at the outbreak of the Great War he was dispatched immediately to France in command of the cavalry with the British Expeditionary Force. Subsequently he commanded the Fifth Army and then the Third before being sent to Palestine. He will be long remembered in British military annals as a figure of the Great War, capable of swift and decisive action and also of high calibre as an executive, as he showed during his term as High Commissioner in Egypt.

PARK LANDS IN GREAT BRITAIN

The acquisition of Dovedale in Derbyshire as a national park is one of the proposals made for a suitable memorial to the late King. The Lord Mayor of Derby, contending that the "great King and his momentous reign require to be commemorated by something more national than an addition to London's statues," advocates as a fitting memorial, "a national park on the Pennine Range, the backbone of England, within reach of north and south, and containing a building capable of housing national and international conferences." Whatever may come of the worthy mayor's proposal, it will call fresh attention to the work of the National Trust, which already owns about five hundred acres in the Valley of the Dove, an area which is known as embracing some of the loveliest scenery in England.

The National Trust is a purely private body, as the then Prince of Wales reminded the public on its fortieth anniversary celebrated some months ago, whose object is the preservation of places of historic interest and natural beauty. It now controls 60,000 acres, either actually owned by the Trust or protected by covenants entered into with landowners, who pledge themselves against unsightly development. Properties are constantly being donated by interested citizens, and, in addition, timely gifts have been received from the Pilgrim Trust, a fund set up by an appreciative American. An anonymous donor, for example, recently provided for the acquisition of Aberglaslyn Pass in North Wales, and the view from the bridge which is known to so many visitors. This means that one of the most notable sections of the proposed national park in Snowdonia, some four hundred acres in all, will be preserved for all time.

Much of the lovely Lake District is coming into the hands of the Trust. Buttermere, Crummock Water, and Loweswater, with more than 1,300 acres of wood and other lands, are already secured. A present has been made of 220 acres of Yorkshire moorland on Scarth Wood Mead, near Northallerton. Mow Cop, known as the "Mecca" of Primitive Methodism, because it was the site of the first camp meeting on British soil, has been donated by a Methodist preacher. Historic and picturesque Glencoe in Argyleshire, with its tragic associations of the massacre of M'Ian and the Clan Macdonald in 1692, and the grandest and wildest glen of the Western Highlands, is now safe from commercialized invasion. This property once belonged to Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal.

The latest expansion of the National Trust looks towards saving the historic country houses of England, which, for economic reasons, are threatened with extinction. The heavy death duties on estates are compelling owners to sacrifice these "stately homes of England" and their valuable collections. The scheme is to open these houses to visitors at certain times for an admission fee. One object is to encourage people to become familiar with and to appreciate the beauty of English domestic architecture. The great collections of Castle Howard, Chatsworth, Knowle and similar mansions might thus be preserved. In France more than 150 private châteaux are open to the public under the direction of La Demeure Historique, a society formed some ten years ago. The National Trust, now forty years old, has acquired a momentum that will ensure the retention of a widening area of British beauty spots for the benefit of the appreciative public.

TWENTY MILES AN HOUR

Mr. Max Beerbohm says that the Press is constantly urging people to be "traffic conscious," and he wonders how could they be otherwise. They are "concussion-apprehensive" and "annihilation-evasive," and he asks when the children of this generation, brought up in fear, shall have become adult, what sort of nervous ailments will their progeny have? He admits that many of the present children will not grow up at all because very young people and very old people form the majority of those who are annually slaughtered on the roads. The root of the whole problem Mr. Beerbohm sees in "speed." Motorists, he says, are going too fast. "It would be unreasonable to expect them to impose on themselves a speed limit of twenty miles an hour; but this is the limit which should—and sooner or later will be—enforced on them. Whether this slowing down of traffic will cause a great or a small loss of national income is, I am told, a point on which expert economists are not agreed. What is certain is that it will save annually a vast number of lives."

One of the fallacies in the principle of justice in the United States is that often enough a man is presumed guilty before he is tried. When Alvin Karpis was rounded up in an apartment house in New Orleans by sixteen armed men, Mr. J. Edgar Hoover, head of the United States Federal Police Force, said: "Karpis said he'd never be taken alive, but we took him without firing a shot. That marked him as a dirty, yellow rat." Had such a statement emanated from Scotland Yard after a capture, whoever was responsible for it would have been speedily dismissed from the force.

Speech is too often not, as the Frenchman defined it, the art of concealing thought, but of quite stifling and suspending thought, so that there is none to conceal.—Carlyle.

Note and Comment

By R. B. D.

Avoid shame, but do not seek glory—nothing so expensive as glory.—Sydney Smith.

Mussolini has added a slice of the dark continent of Africa to the bootleg in Europe which is called Italy and boldly proclaims that he has re-established the Roman Empire. But the old Caesars when they went forth to conquer not only chose "foemen worthy of their steel"; they selected parts of the world which it would be profitable to plunder after they had been conquered; they enriched Rome with the spoils of many nations. Just as it has been said that all roads lead to Rome, so it was that a great part of the wealth of the world enriched Rome.

The modern Caesar has this advantage over some of the ancient Caesars. The modern Caesar in his posings and theatricals, in his bombasts and his bluffs, is a very imposing figure. He imposes on the Italians, who delight in that sort of thing because of their intense emotions and their naturally artistic attributes. Some of the ancient Caesars were not exactly perfect physical figures. They were not good actors, but they were impressive in action. They may have boasted a bit, but they also did things. The things which Mussolini thus far has done will not add materially to the wealth of Rome or to the glory of the modern Roman Empire.

Shakespeare may have put words in the mouth of an illustrious Roman when he said of Julius Caesar that he was ambitious and pointed to the wounds which were the consequences of this ambition. No one has said yet that the ambition of the modern Caesar is to become the titular as well as the actual ruler of the imperial structure he has set up. The announced purpose of the dictator and conqueror of Abyssinia is to set up a throne in the capital of Ethiopia and have the new Emperor enthroned there with great pomp and impressive ceremony. But who shall set limits to the bounds of the ambition of an individual obsessed by visions of the glories of wars of aggression and the grandeur of conquest?

If the new Roman Empire is to be a reincarnation of the ancient Roman Empire, Italy has access to the Red Sea, and there are rich territories that may be reached from that sea. The path of the conqueror to the realms of glory may be barred in Europe, but the territory of Europe is small compared with the vaster territories in Africa and Asia. The imaginative correspondents declared that the conquest of Ethiopia was merely the first step in the grand march of Mussolini to greater and more profitable conquests. Italy in herself is not a rich country either actually or potentially. The little war with Haile Selassie already has dissipated the greater part of her accumulated wealth. The application of sanctions may not have affected the programme of the dictator, but it has seriously affected and materially lessened foreign trade. The women of Italy have responded to the emotional appeals of Mussolini by piling their treasures of gold and jewels into the national treasury and dedicating their sons as voluntary sacrifices to the voracious deity of war, but the fact remains that the common people of Italy, under a heavy and increasing load of taxation, are being impoverished, and that a time must come when there will be an accounting and the gains of victory will have to be weighed in the balance against the sacrifices of war.

Nevertheless the fact remains that thus far Mussolini has bluffed his way through in defiance of the hostile sentiment of the world and the futile protests of the League of Nations. According to our limited understanding of the game, other players have played the game Mussolini is playing. The game is dangerous unless there are occasions when the player holds the cards. The dictator is continuing his favorite method of play by withdrawing his representatives from meetings of the League. He is going to play the game according to his own hand. Sooner or later there must be a showdown.

The Italian delegates have gone back to Rome. The League will have a month's recess. Events will be permitted to shape their own course. But in the midst of seeming inactivity there will be activity. If the representatives of the nations which believe in the principles of peace in accordance with the will of the people are holding counsel together, it is safe to assume that the representatives of the nations which prefer arbitrary rule according to the whim of dictators are pondering over a situation which is critical in the highest degree. For the first time in the history of the conflict between might and right the forces of right have established themselves upon solid ground. Will they maintain that position or be bluffed out of it?

A Good Move

Victoria Athletic Club officials, we understand, are sponsoring the baseball school to be operated during the Summer months. The plan is certainly a step in the right direction, and if started a few years ago, Victoria would have some good baseball clubs today. However, we cannot bring time back, so let's forget the past, and cast our eyes to the future, and live in hopes that Victoria, once a popular baseball centre, will be back in the limelight in a few years. 'Tis then that we, along with other baseball fans, will stand right up and cheer for the Victoria Athletic Club and its baseball school.—S.T.

Government Extravagance

We read the following trite statement in a labor paper: "Because the average industrial, commercial or agricultural employee pays little in direct taxation, it is too often assumed he is not a substantial contributor to the cost of government. If workers in general realized how far this assumption is from the truth, they would be less complacent in the face of the rising tide of taxation and public debt. If the average Canadian knew how much it cost him every year to run the Government, there would soon be an end to the orgy of spending." . . . A correspondent objected to our dislike of the word "gotten," so we looked it up in the Dictionary of Modern English Usage. It said: "Gotten still holds its use in American English. In British English it is in verbal use." . . . A Toronto storekeeper could not understand why he was pestered all day long with salesmen. It took him several months to find out he was being used as an example by a nearby school for Lesson 16, "How to Approach a Difficult Customer." . . . The following farmer's psalm has been composed by a Keating fruitgrower: "Compulsory marketing is my shepherd, and I am in want. It compelleth me to cut down my production and leadeth me beside vacant farms, while it disrupteth my loyalty through bureaucracy. Yea, I walk through the valley of control and see no recovery, while a levy is prepared on my products in the presence of mine enemies. It anointeth my meager returns with more taxes, and my difficulties runneth over. Surely regulations and quotas shall follow me for all the days of my life, and I shall dwell in the house of compulsion for ever more."—G.B.

Any Old Dollar Looks Good

It looks like a race between the silver Jubilee dollar and this year's issue of the silver Canadian dollar carrying the head of the late King George V. Although many tens of thousands of these coins were issued by the Government, they are already becoming scarce. The banks have a few, which they issue on request, but none are being handed back by the public. Where are they all going? Of course, today, the Jubilee silver dollar is as rare as an ultra-honest politician.—N.A.C.M.

'Twas More Than Freak

Talk about your freak golf shots. On Sunday a duffer we know intimately took a terrific cut at the ball from the eighteenth tee at Uplands. He "pushed" the ball over the fence, it bounced twice on the road, smashed into the windshield of an approaching car, broke the glass, and bounded back onto the fairway. Some shot, William.—W.J.H.

FIFTY YEARS AGO TODAY

(From The Daily British Colonist of May 13, 1886)

Municipal Council—A special meeting was held last night with His Worship the Mayor and Councillors Robertson, Lipsett, Vigelius, Styles, Grant, Higgins, Smith and Humber present. A communication from the Attorney-General was received, tendering the use of the gaol and barracks to the city as tenants at will, at five cents per week; also stating that he had instructed the penitentiary authorities not to receive any city prisoners who were sentenced to imprisonment with the option of a fine. After some business respecting the reserves, the council adjourned to Wednesday at 4 p.m.

Nanaimo Notes—The small steamer Yukon, with a party of nine prospectors for the Great Yukon River, arrived here Tuesday, en route to Juneau City, from which place they will proceed to the reported diggings on Yukon River. J. W. Trutch, Dominion agent, accompanied by a Dominion engineer, went over the Island railway line from Nanaimo to Comichan River on Saturday.

Baseball Match—A baseball game will take place this afternoon at 2 o'clock at Beacon Hill Park, between Victoria Athletic Club and Lansdowne Club. An exciting contest may be expected.

"PEACE AT ANY PRICE"

Sir,—In sending you copy of enclosed letter to Archdeacon Scott, a very old friend of mine, I would say that I know him so well that I am perfectly sure that he will approve of my asking for its publication, and of the use to which I am putting his splendid "Invocation to England," at a time when her "mighty soul" seems to need a rousing spur.

F. W. L. MOORE.

3249 Quadra Street, Victoria, B.C., May 12, 1936.

My Dear Scott:

Here's a text for your Muse from this morning's paper: "Ten of this city's leading youthful orators took part in the contest sponsored by the Victoria Branch of the League of Nations Society in Canada." Maintaining that Canada should preserve "Peace at Any Price," Bernard Ennals was awarded the right to represent Victoria at the Canadian Youth Congress in Ottawa from May 23 to 25, for his speech on "The Duty of Canadian Youth."

Some eighteen months ago you very kindly sent me (with permission to publish) your verses "To England," beginning:

"O mighty soul of England, rise in splendor
Out of the wrack and turmoil of the night,
And as of old compassionate and tender,
Uphold the cause of justice and of right."

Will you not now (in view of the world situation, with Italy, according to the League, in wrongful and illegal possession, and with England declaring in absolute futility that "Haile Selassie is still Ethiopia's Emperor") write for us an epitaph on "England's Departed Greatness?" It might be headed "How are the mighty fallen, and the weapons of war perished!" "Of him to whom much is given shall much be required"; and concluding with that Hebrew word of despairing sadness, "Ichabod." That might help us to forget your great lines:

"Thine was the call to face with dauntless bearing

and your final invocation:

"O Soul of England—England's great possession—
Lead thou mankind into the way of peace."

in the more popular thought, or obsession, or shall we call it "England's pusillanimous possession" of today—a "possession" by the twin evil spirits of opportunism and worldly fear?

Copies of such an epitaph will no doubt be highly appreciated by the Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin, Capt. Anthony Eden, and the Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King; nor will we forget the Canadian Youth Congress at Ottawa, and the Canadian delegation to the World Youth Congress at Geneva.

Yours faithfully (if in sorrow),
F. W. L. MOORE,

COMMUNIST PROPAGANDA

Sir,—I was very pleased to see that recently in your columns the true character of the League Against War and Fascism has been shown to the public by the well-informed letters of the members of the Youth Action Forum. As one very interested in the cause of peace, I have studied the teachings and activities of this league, and from this study have become convinced that it is a cleverly camouflaged Communist organization.

It may interest your readers to know that at the Moscow Comintern, the source of all Communist propaganda, these general tactics were decided on in 1928 (and I believe the League Against War and Fascism was started in 1929) to oppose all imperialist wars (not war, mark you, but only imperialist wars).

As I have gathered from studying the deliberations of that gathering, not because thereby they could stop an imperialist war, for, according to Marx and Lenin, this is inevitable. But so that in any country which went to war they may raise up a body of public opinion which will refuse to fight in such a war and will organize large strikes and so turn it into a civil war. When such a civil war is in progress, Russia may now probably help the rebels; for last year Stalin made this significant statement: "The Soviet armies are now so formidable that they are ready for the offensive."

The chief enemy, they stated, of Communism is Fascism and all Communists must fight Fascism wherever they meet it.

The undertakings on the card which all members of the League Against War and Fascism have to sign contain these two interesting items:

(a) "To assist anti-Fascist fighters in any country."

That, if it means anything means that all enthusiastic members of this organization, if there were a rising in Germany, would have to go over and help the rebels. This surely is aiding and abetting war, the worst kind of war, civil war, and might easily lead to international war. Civil war, as all students of history know, is a far more brutal thing than even international war. In this, this league is directly obeying Moscow.

(b) "To oppose the use of police in strikes."

Police are used in strikes to protect the law-abiding and non-violent workers from their violent comrades. Therefore, this league advocates putting the law-abiding at the mercy of the disruptive and violent. Also this is paving the way for revolutionary strikes and again directly obeying the Comintern.

Now, if anyone really wishes to prevent war, they can join the League of Nations Society, which works for world peace through constitutional channels. And if they wish to stop the growth of Fascism, they should oppose Communism; not support it.

Fascism is first and foremost the antidote of Communism. If there had been no Communism, there would have been no Fascism.

In Italy just after the war, Communism was very strong indeed. Many factories were taken over by the employees, the country suffered under continual strikes, and even the beginnings of a Red army were formed. To oppose this, Mussolini started his Fascists, and then all the independent-minded workmen and the bourgeois, to save themselves from the horrors of Communism, of which they had had some experience, supported him, and so enabled him to achieve control.

Just in the same way in Germany: It was the four million Communist votes in the 1930 elections which frightened the other electors and made them put Hitler into power. They realized the probability of Communism getting into power and so supported the far lesser evil of Nazism.

The way to stop Fascism from growing is to stop Communism from growing, and the way to stop Communism, which Lenin said must, if it is to succeed, ruthlessly and pitilessly eliminate the middle classes, from growing, is to make the rule of both our political and economic systems the golden rule, and to introduce a system which will distribute the goods which we now have in plenty to those who cannot buy them. This is also the path which will lead to international peace.

A. S. AVERILL.

URSUS KERMODEI

Sir,—Referring to the letters by T. A. Wilson and Dora Kitto, appearing in your issues of the 8th and 10th instant, it might be of interest to some of your readers to learn the circumstances under which Ursus Kermodei came to Victoria.

Ursus Kermodei belongs to a species found only in a small district on the British Columbia Coast, ranging from Nass River to South Bentinck Arm. They inhabit most of the large islands of the Northern Coast, with the exception of the Queen Charlotte group. Dr. W. T. Hornaday, in the report of the New York Zoological Society, January 10, 1905, says in part: "There is no escape from the conclusion that a hitherto unknown species of bear, of very small size, inhabits the west-central portion of British Columbia . . . The new species is named in honor of Mr. Francis Kermode."

When word got abroad that a new species of bear had been discovered, many foreign museums and zoos were anxious to procure specimens. As these animals are limited in number, the Provincial Government prohibited their exportation. In the Spring of 1924, a very young female was captured by an Indian on Princess Royal Island. The Indian sold her and the purchaser offered her for sale in the United States. The police got word of it, and after some months, discovered the bear hidden in Stanley Park, awaiting an opportunity of being sent out of the province. The cub was turned over to the Game Conservation Board and so became a ward of the Government. The authorities had three courses open to them: to return the bear to Princess Royal Island, where, owing to her long sojourn with human beings and her extreme youth at the time of her capture, she would probably have suffered; to destroy her or to keep her in captivity. They chose the latter course and she was sent over to the curator of the museum at Victoria. Arriving at Victoria, no convenient place to house her being available, she was turned over to the city, and temporary quarters, since improved, but still inadequate, were assigned her.

The question of procuring a mate, touched on by both correspondents, is open to objection. It would be almost impossible to capture a full-grown bear of this species. Presuming that the mate desired would be a male, there would be a further difficulty. The bears would have to be separated after mating, as the female would not tolerate the presence of one of the opposite sex and there would be for the greater part of the year two bears in solitary confinement instead of one as at present.

BOATS GET BUFFETING

Cutter and Tug Have Rough Experience With Wind And Sea

SEATTLE, May 14 (AP).—The coast guard cutter Pulaski and the tug Sea Lion, San Francisco, were buffeted in a rough sea off Orford Reef, on the Oregon Coast today, unable to tie up a 5,000,000-foot log raft adrift near the reef, coast guard headquarters here reported.

The Pulaski, from Marshfield, Ore., messaged she contacted the Sea Lion and threw a hawser on the raft. A heavy southwest wind kept the cutter from coming head into the wind and a half-hour later the hawser was twice turned loose.

Both vessels stood by, the coast guard said, awaiting a quieter sea in which to tie up the raft again, provided the wind does not drive it ashore.

DEATH ENDS CAREER OF FAMOUS SOLDIER

army at the battle of Arras in 1917, in which the Canadian forces captured Vimy Ridge, while the British troops penetrated the German positions further south, together inflicting one of the severest defeats of the war on the Germans. It was generally believed, however, that Allenby and General Sir Douglas Haig (afterwards Earl Haig) disagreed regarding the conduct of this battle and that Haig for this reason recommended Allenby for the position in Palestine later the same year.

Allenby also was in the second battle of Ypres in which the Canadians first encountered gas.

A STRIKING SPEECH

It was recalled that Lord Allenby less than a month ago was installed as lord rector of Edinburgh University when he made a striking speech condemning war and urging the institution of an international police force. He renounced the "glory of conquest with its gain of Dead Sea fruit."

In his official history of the Great War, Captain Cecil Falls pays generous tribute to the troops "which were a truly imperial force under Allenby's command," and attributes much credit to their leader's power of impressing his own personality upon them. Captain Falls describes the campaign as one of "progressive greatness and conception although it is admitted Allenby had opportunities denied his colleagues on the Western Front."

LINKED WITH LAWRENCE

In the popular mind, Lord Allenby often was linked with the late Colonel T. E. Lawrence, the "Lawrence of Arabia." When Allenby reached Palestine Lawrence was on the verge of failure in his efforts to foment the desert revolt. Allenby threw his support behind Lawrence, providing men, money and arms, resulting in the Arab tribal uprising which helped destroy the Turkish armies.

Lord Allenby was made a field marshal in 1919 on the same day as Lord Plumer, who was well known to the Canadian forces. He held eighteen foreign orders and many other honors, including an honorary degree of the University of Toronto.

EARLIER WAR SERVICES

He was born in 1861, and, after leaving Sandhurst, joined the Inniskilling Dragoons, serving with them in the Bechuanaland expedition and in Zululand in 1888. He served throughout the Boer War, being mentioned in dispatches twice, and in 1910 was appointed inspector of cavalry, a post he held at the outbreak of the war.

After his successful campaign in Palestine, Lord Allenby was appointed High Commissioner for Egypt. During this period he showed himself a statesman as well as soldier, particularly in the tense situation provoked by the murder of Sir Lee Stack, the British "sirdar" or commander-in-chief of the Anglo-Egyptian army.

QUIET RETIREMENT

Returning from Egypt, Lord Allenby was appointed captain of Deal Castle, but resigned after a year, explaining: "There was nothing between us and all the winds that blow except Cologne Cathedral and that was not very effective. The authorities refused to stop the draught or install central heating so I packed up."

Since then, he and Lady Allenby had lived in a quiet house in the South Kensington district of London where he spent a good deal of his time attending to his collection of birds.

VISITED VICTORIA

Lord and Lady Allenby visited Victoria in March, 1926, during a six months' cruise around the world, and were guests for two days at Government House as the guests of Hon. R. Randolph Bruce, Lieutenant-Governor. While here he was the guest at a private dinner at Government House. He also addressed a luncheon meeting of the Canadian Club and a public meeting in First United Church.

Colonel J. Lightbody, of this city was a member of the field marshal's staff during the Great War. "A great soldier, a great Britisher and a true comrade in arms," was Colonel Lightbody's tribute to Lord Allenby.

General Noel Money, of Qualicum Beach, who served under Allenby in Palestine, said: "Lord Allenby combined the qualities of soldier, statesman, sportsman, gentleman and true patriot, which every Britisher admires."

taking from Ketchikan to the North Sea.

Captain A. W. Nickerson, master of the ship, reported by wireless to the ship's owners, the Northland Transportation Company in Seattle, that the North Sea had passed through rocky Eureka Pass and put into Hunter Bay in "perfect shelter." The message said the pumps were gaining on the water. He gave no details of the damage caused the hull when the vessel struck.

NO EXPLANATION

None of the wireless messages explained how the North Sea ran aground, but W. J. Manahan, assistant manager of the Northland Transportation Company, said the steamship reported thick fog as she crept through Dixon entrance after refloating, and that her owners conjectured she grounded during a fog.

FEWER FAMILIES NOW ON RELIEF

Reduction for Month of April Compared With March, City Reports

Compared with March, there was a reduction of twenty-nine families on relief during the month of April, the city's relief department reported yesterday.

There were 928 heads of families on relief last month, compared with 957 in March, and 985 in April of last year.

The decline was attributed chiefly to the seasonal pick-up in certain industries.

The Oak Bay team was trained by Miss Patricia Hamilton Smith, while the Victoria High School team was trained by Leslie Hardie and Harry Gilliland.

The subject debated was: "Resolved, that the power to amend the British North America Act should remain in the hands of the British Parliament." The Oak Bay team took the affirmative.

SUNSHINE INN REPORT ISSUED

Expenses During April Exceed Donations—Fewer Meals Served

The regularly monthly statement of Sunshine Inn, issued yesterday, disclosed that the operating expenses for April amounted to $176.61, as against cash donations for the same period of $113.55.

There were 3,593 free meals provided to applicants, almost 900 less than in the month of March and more than 2,000 less than in April of last year.

Of the present attendants for food at Sunshine Inn at least 75 per cent are unemployable at hard work and until some means can be found whereby these men can be given some useful work that they can perform, their case will remain a social problem.

The decision of the committee to discontinue the morning meal from June 1 was made, but the afternoon meal from 3:30 to 4:30 will continue to those in absolute need. The parents are being asked to personally apply for their children to come for meals and care will be taken that young children are not allowed without permission and necessity being shown.

The total of free meals provided up to April 30 was 323,625. The inn is now operating in the fifth year as a voluntary institution with support from private sources.

SUMMER HOURS FOR EMPLOYEES

Plan Will Come Into Effect in Oak Bay Monday—Council Refuses Claim

The Summer hours plan for the municipal employees of Oak Bay, which will allow starting work half an hour earlier and closing half an hour earlier, will come into effect on Monday.

A claim for a new pair of stockings and a pair of shoes as a result of a lady suffering ruin to these articles of apparel owing she said, to the rough character of the roadway at Oak Bay Avenue and Monterey Avenue, was refused by Oak Bay Council yesterday.

The council was asked by the Oak Bay Golf Club to consolidate the meter readings of the club in the estimating of the reduction in the cost of water on the new plan. At present the club has four meter readings and asks to have these unitedly regarded as one in the estimating of the amount due. The matter will be considered later, but it was pointed out that there were disadvantages in consolidation for the municipality.

By the end of the month concentrates, with an estimated value of $8,000, will have been shipped, it is expected. Arrangements are being made to operate two machines, in place of one formerly used, in breaking ore, while two machines will also be used on the Goodenough property.

Directors of the Ymir Consolidated are much gratified at the progress that is being made and the manner in which difficulties which confronted the company are being overcome.

KINSMEN TO HOLD BEAUTY CONTEST

First Prize for Attraction at "Karnival" on May 25 to Be Fifteen Dollars in Cash

With the first prize being $15 in cash, the Kinsmen Club's bathing beauty contest, to be staged at the Crystal Garden on May 25 in connection with the "Kinsmen Komunity Karnival," will be one of the largest ever conducted here, it was reported at a club dinner in the Empress Hotel last night.

A number of entries have already been received, but officials in charge of the show said that more entries were needed. Entries may be made either at the Crystal Garden or at Morris Kersey's coffee shop on Fort Street. Besides the main cash prize, other valuable awards, contributed by local concerns, will be given away.

A public address system will be installed and the winner will be declared by audience applause. There will be swimming events, a new and enlarged midway and other attractions, club committeemen reported. To conclude final details, committee chairmen will meet on May 21.

At last night's meeting, Don McDiarmid, Dr. Robert Nodwell and William Wellings were initiated as new members.

COURT OF APPEAL RESERVES RULING

The Court of Appeal yesterday deferred judgment in Attorney-General of British Columbia vs. Royal Bank, an action involving some $7,000 on deposit in the bank to the credit of the Island Amusement Company. The company was struck from the Register of Companies and under the statutes the amount reverted to the Crown.

Subsequently the company was revived, but the Government refused to relinquish its claim and the bank, which adopted a neutral attitude, was sued. Mr. Justice H. B. Robertson, in Supreme Court, decided against the Attorney-General and appeal was taken.

The Court of Appeal decided to await a decision recently handed down by the House of Lords, which has material bearing on such cases, before rendering judgment.

AUTHORS HEAR TWO ADDRESSES

Mrs. J. O. Cameron and Miss Crighton Give Interesting Talks

Two interesting talks were given by Mrs. J. O. Cameron and Miss Dorothy Crighton, at last night's meeting of the Victoria and Island branch of the Canadian Authors' Association.

Mrs. Cameron, in an informal chat, told of some of her experiences on her recent European tour, particularly experiences and places she had visited that were of literary interest.

She gave an intimate picture of the poet's corner in Westminster Abbey, and told of Dickens' scenes she had visited. In this latter connection she gave a description, from Charles Dickens' works, of Staple Inn, which she had found most interesting.

A visit to the British Museum also was described in so far as it concerned literary work, while she also told of some ancient but interesting documents and papers she had seen in the Hall of Records.

MARKED CONTRASTS

She took her audience to Leipsig and Dresden and concluded her address by stating that every where she went in Europe she was constantly reminded of ancient and modern times. There was marked contrasts in everything she saw.

Miss Crighton spoke on "Folk Lore as Source Material for the Drama." In this connection she recounted her experiences in Arizona, where drama was taught in the schools to a very great extent. In this state the folk lore of the Navejo Indians was tapped for suitable children's plays, and Miss Crighton expressed the view that similar work could be done with the Indian lore of the Pacific Northwest.

There was a good market for children's plays, she said, and pointed out that much could be done with plays that would fit into religious services.

SUCCESS OF MEMBERS

Attention of the members was drawn by Miss Eugenie Perry, the president, to the success of Mrs. Doris Ferne, who had received honorable mention among a field of more than 500 contestants in the Canadian Club sonnet contest. She also referred to the success of Mrs. Frances Ebbs-Canavan, whose play had won the junior championship trophy at the recent British Columbia Drama Festival.

Miss Josephine Charlebois, accompanied by Miss Barfoot, sang an Elgar number, and a composition by Stanley Shale. H. A. Cox recited two poems, one by a local composer.

It was decided to forward to Major L. Bullock-Webster a letter of appreciation from the organization for his work in connection with the recent drama festival.

Donald Fraser showed members of the association an interesting book published by the University of Washington, which contained twelve artistic woodcuts of scenes in and around the city.

Parksville

Mr. R. Thorpe spent the week-end visiting his parents in Saanich.

Mrs. T. Bazett, of Duncan, motored to Parksville during the week, and was the guest of Mrs. N. Despard.

Mrs. May Young has returned from visiting in Victoria, where she was the guest of Mrs. M. T. Phillips.

Mr. Morgan Hirst, who has been for the past few months working at Youbou, is at present the guest of his mother, Mrs. Ann Hirst.

Miss June Tryon has as her guest Miss Wendy Benson, of Vancouver.

Silver Trophy Won By Versatile Club At Annual Banquet

Dr. Henrietta Anderson Guest Speaker at Y.W.C.A. —Decorated Tables Competition Attracts Much Interest—Secretary Gives Review

THE dining-room of the Y.W.C.A. was the scene of a most delightful gathering last evening, when the Girls' Council held its annual Spring banquet, nearly 200 girls and special guests being present. Miss Violet Mylrea, president of the council, presided and made a charming and efficient chairman.

Miss Dorothy Doidge, vice-president of the council, was the toastmistress, and the toast list was as follows: "The King"; "The Will to Peace," proposed by Helen Peaker and replied to by Mrs. W. E. Stevenson, a former secretary of the Detroit Y.W.C.A.; "The World-Wide Y," proposed by Edna Teagle and responded to by Mrs. W. E. Cushing, general secretary of the Victoria Y.W.C.A., who gave a number of interesting "news flashes" regarding Y.W.C.A. activities in various parts of the world; "The Y at Home," proposed by Margaret Lambie, responded to by Mrs. Harry Cassidy.

YEAR'S ACTIVITIES

Miss Margaret Ryan, girls' secretary, in her report of the girls' work for the past year, spoke gratefully of the interest and help which had been given in the preparation of the various programmes and to those whose leadership had been responsible for a year of great progress.

She outlined the group activities and gave a comprehensive resume of the entire programme, as it embraces the several fields of human interest which comes under the club's direction. Travel talks had proved an inspiration and were much enjoyed. The Outdoor Club had had two trips each month; the World Fellowship Week, Christmas activities and the formation of the Girls' Council had been highlights in the year.

The Charm course had been thoroughly enjoyed and its success, Miss Ryan said, was chiefly due to the amount of thought and preparation spent on each subject, together with the graciousness with which each was given.

The Charm course was followed in March by a long anticipated visit from Miss Hobrecker and a week-end conference was held in connection with her visit.

GUEST SPEAKER

The guest speaker of the evening was Dr. Henrietta Anderson, who took as her subject, "Why the Y," which she considered stood for "Youth," and into which she wove sub-themes: "You," "Others," "Union," "Truth" and "Health," each of which was a vital force in the great whole and embodied in the ideals of the Y.W.C.A.

She pointed out the value of the contribution which could be made by the individual to the "great experiment of living," of the necessity for thought for others, which she considered was one of the world's greatest needs; the value of united effort, the necessity for truth to oneself as well as towards others, and the importance of health, both of mind as well as body.

Dr. Anderson interspersed in her address amusing personal anecdotes and witty stories, and she was accorded a warm vote of appreciation by Miss Angela Bianco at the close of her talk.

TABLE CONTEST

Decorated tables, which had been arranged by the various Y.W.C.A. groups, added color and interest, and the competition for the silver cup for the best table was keen. Mrs. J. W. Hudson, Mrs. D. B. Keir and Mrs. J. Titterington were the judges, and Mrs. Hudson announced the winning group to be the "Versatile" group. This was the pioneer club in Y.W.C.A. activities, and the girls had carried out this theme in the decorative scheme, their table arranged with miniature covered wagons, log cabins set in miniature forests, place cards of tiny axes set in "log rolls" of candy and in the centre was a beautifully dressed doll representing the Y.W.C.A., bearing a lighted candle and grouped round were paper cut-out figures representative of the various activities which come into the sphere of the club life. "Pat" Kirchin received the cup for her group.

Other tables were masterpieces of decorative art, original and most charming and the task of judging was therefore extremely difficult, Mrs. Hudson said, in presenting the cup.

THE PROGRAMME

Mrs. P. J. Rumball led the gathering in community singing from the Y.W.C.A. song sheet, Miss Dolly Barker acting as accompanist. Miss Enid Cole recited a charming little poem, "Happiness," followed by a vocal solo, "I Hear You Calling Me," and Mrs. P. J. Rumball contributed two amusing monologues which were enthusiastically applauded.

On behalf of the Girls' Council, Miss Mona Humphries presented a lovely bouquet of flowers to Miss Ryan.

In addition to the tables decorated for the competition, the guest tables were gay with bowls of lilac, narcissi, tulips and wild Kamass and illuminated by candles in silver holders. The hostesses for the evening were Mrs. H. M. Cassidy, Mrs. Roy Angus, Mrs. W. Walker, Mrs. W. E. Cushing and Miss Margaret Ryan.

The special guests were Dr. Henrietta Anderson, Mr. F. E. Winslow, Mr. E. E. Wootton, Mr. James Forman, Mr. J. L. Clay, Miss Margaret Clay, Mrs. H. P. Hodges, Miss Bullock-Webster, Miss Sheila Boyd, Miss Helen Wells, president of the Venture Club; Miss M. Beveridge, sponsor of the Victoria C.G.I.T. Girls' Council, and Miss Margaret Acland, captain of St. George's Company.

The groups competing in the table display included the gymnasium class, the Versatile Club, the Pirates, the Senior Business Girls, the Junior Business Girls and Y-Owencas.

Wedding Service Held At St. Aidan's Church

Miss Winnifred Gladys Boorman Becomes Bride Of Mr. William Albert Pearson—Couple To Live at Prospect Lake

Lilac and tulips, with a blending of other late flowering Spring blooms were arranged with charming effect in St. Aidan's United Church last evening for the wedding of Winnifred Gladys, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Boorman, 2532 Vancouver Street, and Mr. William Albert Pearson, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. Pearson, of Mount Tolmie.

Rev. T. G. Griffiths conducted the service, and Mr. Percy Boorman played the wedding marches and accompanied Miss Miriam Williams, who sang "O Promise Me" as the register was being signed.

CHARMING BRIDE

The charming bride was given away by her father, and wore a pretty jacket frock of blue lace and a Dutch hat trimmed with forget-me-nots and roses, and a chin veil of stiff blue net. She carried a Colonial posy of lilies of the valley, pink rosebuds and forget-me-nots. Her only attendant was Miss Phyllis Williams, in a frock of yellow net, who wore a floral bandeau in her hair and carried an arm bouquet of yellow snapdragons and blue irises.

The best man was Mr. Arthur Mayo, and Mr. Douglas Pearson and Mr. William Hill were ushers.

INFORMAL RECEPTION

An informal reception of relatives and intimate friends was held later at the family home, where the bride and groom received the guests in a bower of lilac and tulips. The supper table was centred with the wedding cake and adorned with vases of pink sweet peas and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Boorman wore for the wedding a blue costume, ornamented with a shoulder spray of sweet peas and lilies of the valley.

After a wedding trip on the Island, Mr. and Mrs. Pearson will live at Prospect Lake for the Summer, and later make their home on James Island, where the bridegroom is employed by the Canadian Industries Limited. The bride went away in a beige suit with brown accessories.

Among the gifts was a silver-handled carving set from the office staff of the Great West Life Assurance Co., of which the bride had been a member for a number of years.

CHAPTER XV

Val stood before the long mirror in her room and considered with half closed eyes the familiar effect of the rather demure blue lace frock, with its short ruffled jacket and its wide flared skirt. It was the only one of which Aunt Mahala had ever expressed complete approval. "At least it's decent," she had said. Meaning, of course, that it lacked the usual low neck and deep V back.

"The poor darling," Val thought, "she was always worried for fear I'd cause people to talk."

Already she was thinking of her life in New Manchester as definitely, even remotely, in the past . . . of Aunt Mahala as some one who had belonged to that old life but who, for her, no longer existed. Tonight a new world was beckoning and she was going to it with open, eager arms.

Kate leaned in the doorway, grinning. "Would it interest you to know that Mr. Hugh Malcolm, the popular young playwright, is pacing the floor of the living-room?"

"Already? And I was just thinking how I'd pose myself on the sofa while I was waiting for him." She went to the closet and came back with a hooded cape, part of the wardrobe that was to have pleased the eye of the young man who, by his silence, had confessed that her greatest charm had been the prospect of her inheriting Aunt Mahala's fortune.

A red triangle bag dangling from her arm, Val stole one last glance in the mirror. "Will he like me? Will he want to kiss me again?" Then the little smile faded. "Winifred will probably wear something spectacular and make me look like an infant just out of the nursery."

They were in the taxi before Hugh admitted he had been impressed. "Do I imagine it," he asked, "or does that lovely frock reflect the influence of Aunt Mahala?"

"You're too observant," Val laughed. "It does, of course. You don't like it?"

"I think I'd like anything on you, Val."

"That's always a safe answer."

He twisted around and looked at her. "The first night I met you I told you I was sorry you were not staying the Winter in New York and you told me bluntly I was being polite. Now you imply I'm being polite about your dress."

"Aren't you?"

"We'll get along in our contract with less friction," he said, pleasantly, "if you understand at the outset that I try never to say anything for effect."

"Fine!" Val said. "You were sorry I wasn't spending the Winter in New York — and now I am. And you think you would like anything on me, and I'm thrilled."

"What I meant, since I'm forced to explain, was that your charm for me at least, is something quite distinct from the clothes you wear . . . I hope you understand that I'm speaking now as the professional playwright—"

"As my boss, in other words."

"Exactly," grinning. "I forgot that once, but I won't again — I promise you."

She dropped her head back in the angle of the cushion and closed her back after that one impulsive kiss eyes, thinking how he had come and pulled her into the hall to tell her it hadn't meant anything. Not moving, she said, "I wish you hadn't said that, Hugh. It takes something out of the adventure."

He watched the passing lights glide across her upturned face and almost wished he hadn't said it. But then, determinedly. "Sorry — but that's how it is. Ours is a strictly business arrangement, Val. I can't make love and write a play at the same time. I've tried it and it doesn't work . . . Even," he added firmly, "if I wanted to make love, which in this case I don't."

But that last was lost on Val, who was thinking, "He tried it with Winifred, he means. And it didn't work because Leslie Crawford objected. And now Leslie is dead and he's taking Winifred to this actors' club." Suddenly she sat up. "Why did you insist on my coming tonight, Hugh. You know Winifred won't like it. I'm sure I wouldn't if I were in her place."

The taxi came to a stop at the curb. Val was looking up at the hotel's tiers of lighted windows when Hugh said:

"On the contrary, she will probably be delighted. She's too clever not to realize that the gossips will be so busy wondering where you fit in that they'll find little time to make the connection between Leslie's death and our being together."

Hugh already was half out of the taxi.

It was incredible to Val, as she watched Hugh and Winifred coming toward the taxi, that Winifred was almost thirty. She had the slim figure and the peach-bloom complexion of a young girl, even in the flat light of the street.

"Of course I haven't forgotten you," Winifred said as she settled in the opposite corner of the seat. "You were backstage the night—the night the show closed. . . . It's nice to see you again." Cordial enough, Val thought, but making no great effort to be cordial.

"Thank you." Val smiled as Hugh eased himself between them. "I suppose I should have taken it for granted, but I hadn't realized the show was closed."

"Only temporarily, I believe," Winifred replied. "The understudy refused to go on and—"

"And thereby brought a not too promising theatrical career to an end," Hugh interpolated. "Sorry, Winifred."

She nodded, pleasantly. "We think he was afraid," she said. "He probably suspected a plot to close the show permanently by murdering the players."

"The leading men, you mean—and he may have been right," said Hugh. And with the obvious design of getting away from an unpleasant subject: "What is this thing we're going to, Winifred?"

"The annual reception, darling. Don't you read your invitations?"

"Not if I know they're invitations. . . . Any celebrities likely to be there?"

"Why, yes — hadn't you heard? Hugh Malcolm, the noted playwright—"

"Yes, yes, yes. Of course. I'd completely forgotten." He turned to Val: "You want to get a good look at this Malcolm chap, Val. Quite the handsome, dashing type, you know. And very celebrated!"

Val laughed, softly. "Any encumberances?" she asked. She saw Winifred looking at her. "I mean—must I be content with looking at him?"

It was Winifred who answered that, white teeth glinting. "No man can be Broadway's darling for five years without collecting at least one major and several minor encumberances. If I were you, Val, I would, as you say, be content with looking."

Slowly Hugh turned his head and looked at Winifred. He didn't say anything, however, and in a moment Winifred slipped an arm through his and let her cheek rest against his shoulder.

Watching, Winifred's words still in her ears, Val thought, "She's giving me fair warning to keep hands off."

And she would, of course. Hugh was attractive and he had kissed her once, and she could imagine herself being terribly fond of him. But not, she told herself with conviction, in love with him. Nor he with her.

There were a great many people in the big adjoining rooms of the club. They seemed to be making a point of knowing one another immediately and Val was feeling very much out of place when Guy Williams appeared.

"I suppose I couldn't interest you in a visit to Pete's place?" he said, grinning.

Val laughed, thinking how engaging this young man could be when he wanted, remembering how swiftly his moods changed, how utterly spoiled he was. "Do you realize this is the first time I've seen you since the night—at the theatre." For all of them, it seemed, everything dated from that tragic night.

Guy nodded. "What do you make of the murder, Val?"

"I'm afraid I haven't the detective instinct," she replied. "I'm sorry about Leslie Crawford, of course, but I'm not in the least interested in trying to discover who did it."

"Is this another pop call, or are you staying in New York for a decent visit?"

She hesitated, decided suddenly there was no reason why she shouldn't tell him the truth. She said, "I'm staying indefinitely this time. Do you mind?"

"You mean it?" He seemed really pleased. "Well, you can count on me for at least three nights a week. I'll show you what makes this town tick."

She shook her head, smiling, and said with pleasant malice. "Thanks, but my afternoons and evenings are all taken—until Spring. You might give me a call along the last of June, if you're still interested."

Grinning, widely, he said "I'll give you a call before the week's out and you'll accept my invitation—just as you accepted it the night you said you couldn't possibly leave Kate's party to go to Pete's Salle a Manger."

Val felt a hand on her arm, heard Hugh's voice behind her. "Hello, Guy. You'll forgive me if I break this up, I hope. Winifred thinks we should be going."

Guy's face clouded. He said, with the evident intention of being unpleasant, "I hear the police are planning a command performance of 'End of Tears'—murder and all. Just thought I'd tip you off so you could have your pass key along and leave your cigarettes at home." He was moving off then, no longer looking at Hugh but at Val, grinning with irritating complacence.

Quickly Val turned to Hugh. "What did he mean?"

Hugh shrugged. "Talking through his hat, probably. . . . Come along; Winifred's taken a sudden notion she's getting the cold shoulder."

* * *

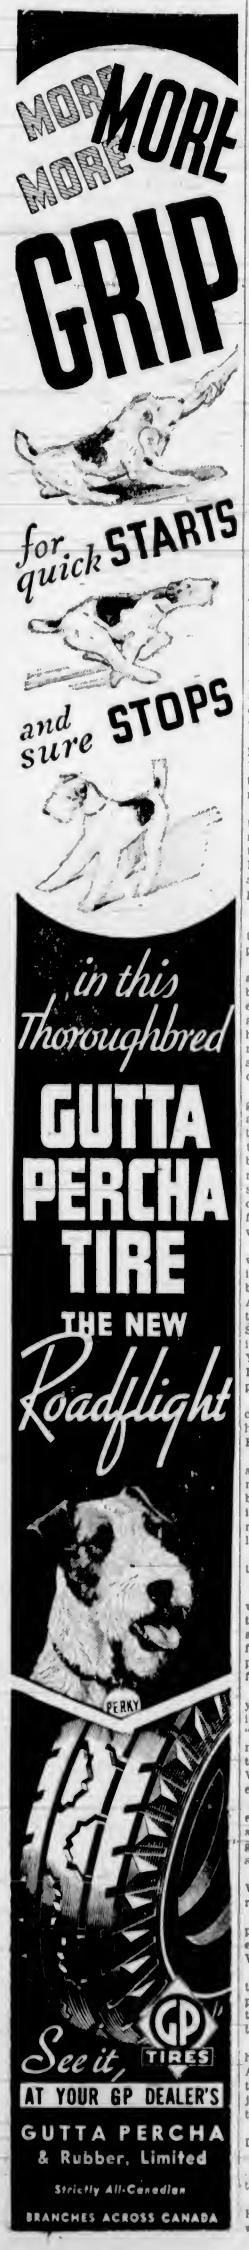

Three weeks had passed and Val sat in Hugh's apartment and read magazines while he punished a typewriter, went with him to theatres, clubs, banquets, concerts, prize fights and on personal calls. He never explained to others why he was dragging her around and of necessity she developed a mental shell into which she could retreat at an instant's notice and be completely impervious to the stares and unspoken questions of those about her.

More than once she suspected he was weary of his bargain. He was growing increasingly restless and on occasion was openly irritable.

Then one evening, while he was punching the keys of his typewriter with feverish intensity, Val fell asleep—and awoke suddenly to find the living-room floor strewn with typewritten pages and Hugh standing at the foot of the couch staring down at her with unconcealed anger.

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

PREVENTABLE SQUEEZE PLAY

It is no exaggeration to say that fully 50 per cent of the coups successfully executed could have been forestalled by timely counter measures.

Obviously, before danger can be averted it must first be recognized. It is infinitely easier to take precautions against attack when one can see in what form and from what direction the attack is coming. For that reason it is wise for players to familiarize themselves with the typical positions from which the various end plays are developed. In today's hand a double squeeze for a small slam contract could have been scotched by the use of elementary arithmetic.

§Response shows second round control.

West's opening lead of the spade queen created an immediate problem for the declarer. He fully recognized the danger of the queen being singleton, but, as against this, a count of tricks disclosed that only eleven could be made by straight play. A squeeze was the only chance and that necessitated passing the first lead. In fear and trembling, declarer played low from the dummy.

East was fast asleep. It should have been child's play to overtake the queen with the king and continue the suit on the theory that if West, instead of the declarer, had the jack, nothing could be lost, whereas if the queen were a singleton an immediate ruff by East would defeat the contract.

When East stolidly let the queen hold the trick, West shifted to the five of clubs and declarer won, after which he rattled off five trump tricks.

The six of trumps now began the double squeeze. West had to discard a club to guard diamonds. East let go a diamond. The jack of spades to the ace reduced West to one club, after which the cashing of the ace and king of diamonds left East in the impossible position of having to guard both dummy's spade and declarer's clubs. The vulnerable slam became a lay-down simply because East, on the first trick could not count up to thirteen.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Question—Both sides vulnerable. North bid one spade. East doubled, holding:

♠ Q 5 4 2 ♥ A 7 ♦ A K 3 ♣ Q 9 5 2

Was that a good take-out double?

Answer—No. The three and one-half bare honor tricks are badly distributed, and the hand lacks support for the other major suit. Best strategy demands a pass.

Rare Specimens Are Admired at Parksville Show

PARKSVILLE, May 14—One of the most successful Spring flower shows ever held in the district took place recently in the Parksville Parish Hall in aid of the funds of the Nanaimo Hospital. The judge, Mrs. C. W. Baker, formerly of French Creek, Parksville, now of Victoria, remarked that all classes of flowers were equal to any she had seen in the show recently held in Victoria, and she congratulated the exhibitors on their splendid showing.

Outstanding blooms were shown by Colonel Bourke, Mrs. Kidman, Miss Morison and Mrs. Hickey. The class for three best specimens was well represented by a beautiful trio of "Lucifer" exhibited by Miss Tiny Harrison. Miss Morison's lovely bowl of Spring flowers, heatles, lilies and tulips, in shades of pastel pinks, was an excellent item, and the "under sixteen" exhibit was specially good, shown by Rene Harrison. The table decoration was a most unusually beautiful one of rare Erythroniums grown under practically perfect conditions by Mrs. Hickey and this by most people was voted a vision of beauty and grace.

In the class for chalice cups a lovely collection of exquisite specimens with brilliant coloring, including Will Scarlett, Red Beacon, Horace, also White Lady. Mrs. Langtry, P. Ornatus and an unknown white seedling short cup, gained a prize for Mrs. Hickey, who obtained a first (only exhibit) for lovely Parma violets mingled with the lovely wild yellow branching Viola Palustris.

Tea was served by the group of the W.I. members, under the management of Mesdames Overy and Doehle and a guessing contest took place, the prize for which was won by Mrs. Hickey.

REPAIRERS AND BUILDERS BUSY

Extensive Improvements at Ladysmith—Library Levy Arranged

LADYSMITH, May 14—Property repairs and some building are going briskly forward in the city, according to the permits for this work granted by the city council at the regular meeting last evening.

The Comox Logging Company is particularly busy in this respect, and its option on three other properties on Gatacre Street was taken up during the week.

Meanwhile, extensive improvements are being effected by the board of works committee on the streets and avenues, and the area residence of Dr. D. F. Hanington, who has transformed part of his grounds into a fine Junken garden and rockeries, will be graded, seeded and planted with shade trees. Dr. Hanington was present at the council meeting, and outlined his plan for further improvements with the co-operation of the city. The council, in assuring him the plan would be given every possible consideration, complimented Dr. Hanington upon his public-spirited efforts to add to the beautification of the city.

LIBRARY LEVY

The finance committee submitted its report on methods for collecting the Union Library levy. They recommended that the levy be itemized on the monthly electric light bills submitted to consumers, as most convenient, economical and as entailing the least hardship. Commencing next month, and for the rest of this year, the monthly levy will be 15 cents, and the total amount is expected to meet Ladysmith's assessment for Union Library obligations for the whole of 1936. Next year the monthly assessment will probably be 10 cents until the necessary total is reached for the year. The committee pointed out that separate accounting would be followed, and that duplications, where consumers are recipients of more than one light account, would be eliminated. Those not reached by this system, would be billed otherwise for the library tax. The report and the recommendations were adopted.

The time used is Pacific standard for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the table, the tide rises or falls continuously during two successive tidal periods without turning.

The height is in feet and tenths of a foot, measured from the average level of low water.

To find the depth of water on the sill of the Esquimalt drydock add 18.9 feet to the height of high water as above given.

To find the depth of water on the sill of the Songhees drydock add 26 feet to the height of high water as above given.

SERVICES HELD FOR PUBLISHER

Funeral of R. J. Cromie Held At Vancouver — Vast Throng Attends

VANCOUVER, May 14 (C.P.).—The funeral of Robert Cromie, publisher of The Vancouver Sun, was held today from Christ Church Cathedral. Mr. Cromie died suddenly in Victoria Monday from a cardiac attack.

Archbishop A. U. de Pencier conducted the Anglican service in simplicity, assisted by Dean Ramsay Armitage.

Finance Minister John Hart and Attorney-General Gordon Sloan represented the British Columbia Government, and Brig.-General Victor W. Odlum was the designated representative of the Dominion Government. The city council attended in a body.

CAPACITY ATTENDANCE

The Cathedral was filled to capacity with representatives of public and semi-public bodies, the newspaper world, and private citizens of the city in which Mr. Cromie had risen to his place as a national figure.

The hymn "Abide With Me" was sung.

After the Cathedral service the long motor-cortege proceeded to Mountain View Cemetery, where a brief service and benediction preceded cremation.

Since Mr. Cromie's death messages have poured in from all over the world, and the Cathedral today was banked with Spring flower tributes.

Court of Appeal
Victoria Sittings

Present — J. A. Macdonald, C.J.B.C., Martin, M.A. Macdonald and McQuarrie, JJ.A.

Sam Levi et al vs. British Columbia Distillery Company, Limited, and George Brownridge:

An appeal from an order of Murphy, J., at Chambers, dated 11th March, 1936. Plaintiff in the action sets up a contract purported to have been entered into by himself and Brownridge whereby the distillery company agreed to deliver to him and Brownridge 1,747,400 gallons American Type Tye whisky, and 238,550 gallons American Type Bourbon whisky in Canada for export, and claimed specific performance or damages for breach of contract and also an injunction restraining the company from disposing of or alienating the goods alleged to be the subject matter of the contract. Brownridge declined to join in the action and was made a party defendant by the plaintiff. He did not file any defence. The company specifically denies any contract of delivery, but that there was an option which was given to Brownridge, but which was not exercised according to its terms.

On the examination of N. C. K. Wills (one of the officers of the company) for discovery, a telegram was produced from him to one W. F. Knight, stating that the option had not been complied with, and directing him (Knight) to "go ahead with his prospect," evidently referring to some other channel for disposing of the whisky. Mr. Wills was asked as to the identity of this "prospect" and on the advice of counsel he refused to answer. On appeal to the judge at chambers for an order directing the witness to answer, the application was dismissed with costs to the defendant in any event in the cause.

Plaintiff then appealed to the Court of Appeal and the matter was argued yesterday before the court as above constituted, when judgment was reserved.

R. C. Lowe for appellant. E. B. Bull for respondent.

Y.M.C.A. CIRCUS TO OPEN TONIGHT

Many Humorous Turns Are Planned To Augment Thrilling and Unusual Acts

In addition to a number of thrilling and unusual acts, patrons at the Y.M.C.A. annual circus, which opens in the Horse Show Building at Willows Park at 8:15 o'clock this evening, will be entertained by a comedy team of eight men in charge of Leonard Oliver and Harold McLean.

Comic figures representing Wimpy, Popeye, a giraffe and an ostrich will add to the fun. A clown band of twenty pieces will feature the tallest piccolo player and the shortest base horn player, under direction of George Birnie. Other music will be furnished by Gizeh Temple Shrine Band, led by Bandmaster James M. Miller. Rainbow Sea Cadets' Bugle Band, and an accordion band of twenty pieces, believed to be the largest in Canada.

Tickets for the circus, which will be repeated tomorrow evening, are on sale at the Y.M.C.A. Holders of tickets that have not been marked on the seating plan, are asked to telephone their numbers to the Y.M.C.A. Box seats may be obtained from S. J. D. Clack, of the Royal Trust Company.

MODERN SOUND IS INSTALLED

Wider Range of Reproduction — Extremes Heard Without Distortion

In the planning and designing of the Atlas Theatre, special attention has been paid to acoustic values. It is only logical that the very latest and best sound equipment should be installed. The "Wide Range Sound" system, the only one of its kind in Victoria, was selected. The outstanding feature of this new sound development is the clear, lifelike quality that achieves a new high standard. This has been accomplished through an extension of the frequency range of sounds that can be reproduced and recorded.

The result is that sounds of both high and low extremes, as whispers or thunders, can be heard at their natural level without distortion. A more sweeping effect of volume is attained, dialogue that might seen toneless is vibrant. The effect is even more marked in musical numbers, where Wide Range, through its enlarged range of audibility, makes it possible to record and reproduce each instrument as distinctly as though each were playing a solo. The carrying volume or undertone of organ recitals which have hitherto been lost are now reproduced with pronounced power.

This new sound system was developed at the Bell Telephone laboratories, which gave the world its first successful sound picture and is part of the constant research and experimental work which is carried on in conection with the Northern Electric sound system.

What Today Means

"TAURUS"

If May 15 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a.m. until noon, from 3 to 5 p.m. and from 7 to 9 p.m. The danger periods are from 8 to 10 a.m., from 5 to 7 p.m. and from 9 to 11 p.m.

Weigh carefully this day any suggestions you have to offer, for unfavorable reactions will perhaps be caused by ideas being submitted that are thoroughly impracticable. Substituting anything that varies in quality from that which has been ordered probably will be the source of most of the troubles in merchandising lines. If in your social activities you are given the opportunity to help in some charitable enterprise, it will be a mistake not to do so, even if it causes you a little inconvenience. Some gracious action on the part of a friend perhaps will brighten this day for you. You probably will find this a lucky day, so be prepared for the possibility of a surprise. Married and engaged couples, as well as those upon whom Cupid is smiling with favor, must be careful not to take offence at any remark intended to be funny, but that might be construed as being offensive.

If a woman, and May 15 is your birthday, it might be wise to bear in mind that many born on this date are inclined to be super-critical. This tendency is one of the underlying reasons for your having, perhaps, many needless unhappy moments. Your love of nature's varying moods should make the country an ideal place for you to reside. Through being very generous you are liable at times, to be slightly improvident. You are apt to take what people say too seriously. The time may come when you will be given an opportunity to make much money. Some form of selling, publicity work, writing, teaching or an artistic pursuit is likely to give you a real chance to advance your fortune. Your prospects for securing the sort of home and husband you desire are excellent.

If a man, and May 15 is your natal day, you are exacting, if you wish to be loved and not feared. You may have a fondness for teasing, but a dislike for a dose of your own medicine. As an inventor, mechanic, engineer, artist, architect, journalist or politician you may achieve prominence.

COL. W. H. PRICE TO LEAVE PUBLIC LIFE

TORONTO, May 14 (C.P.).—Colonel W. H. Price, former Ontario Attorney-General and a member of the Legislature for twenty-two years, last night announced his retirement from public life. He would not contest a seat in the next general election, nor be a candidate for the Conservative party leadership at the May 28 party convention, Colonel Price said.

His retirement was due to "purely personal and private reasons," said Colonel Price, elected member for Toronto Parkdale six times in succession.

Piles Go Quick

With Dr. Leonhardt's Prescription

Many sufferers from itching, bleeding or protruding piles have found out that quick relief can be had with an internal medicine.

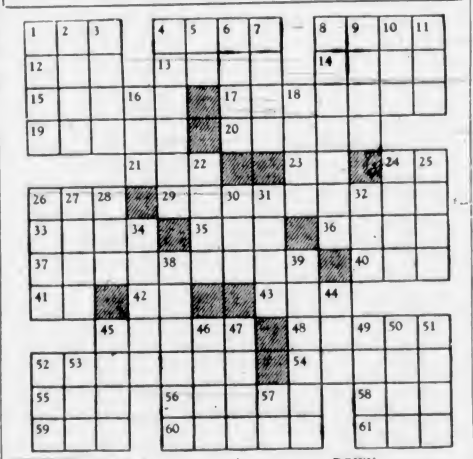

Bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel is the cause of piles. The veins are congested, a flabby the bowel walls weak. That is why an internal medicine like HEM-ROID should be used. HEM-ROID stimulates the circulation, relieves the pressure of blood in the veins of the lower bowel and helps to heal and restore the sore, tender parts.

HEM-ROID is the prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, who spent several years of his professional life in finding the cause of piles and the medicine that would remove them. His medicine succeeds because it tends to correct the cause.

No matter what kind of piles you have or how long you have had them, if you want to try HEM-ROID, you have our promise to give you back your money if you do not find quick and satisfying relief, after using just one bottle.

FIRST AN ONION AND THEN Delicious DOUGHNUTS WERE DEEP FRIED IN THE SAME MAZOLA

THIS test made by many Canadian housewives succeeded because MAZOLA completely seals the flavor in . . . prevents any loss of food richness while cooking . . therefore does not transmit tastes or odors . . and so it can be used over and over again without any risk of spoiling foods. The fact that MAZOLA seals the flavor in, gives food an added delight when deep fried.

And MAZOLA is wonderful for Mayonnaise and French Dressings . . the equal of the finest imported oils . . easy to mix and won't separate if left standing. Its smooth richness adds piquancy and relish. No wonder MAZOLA is the most popular Salad and Cooking Oil sold in Canada.

ATLAS THEATRE TO OFFICIALLY OPEN AT NOON TOMORROW

Work Completed on Fine Modern Building—Air Conditioning Installed Throughout—Seating Capacity of 700—Artistic Decorative Motif Makes Pleasing Effect

FOR the past few months speculation has been rife regarding the new Yates Street Theatre. All Victoria has seen it take form from the first excavation to the fine, modern building as it stands today. Tomorrow it will open under the title of The Atlas Theatre, presenting its initial film to the enthusiastic motion picture fans who will flock to the doors.

The Atlas is in every respect a local enterprise, built and financed by Victoria capital, employing a staff of local employees and technicians. The proprietor, Dr. Gustavius Preiswerck, M.D., Ph.D., has been resident in Victoria for the past fifteen years and is well known through his keen patronage of music and music productions. To the construction of the Atlas he has brought his appreciation of acoustic values and also, from a medical man's point of view, he has held the health and comfort of the patrons as of prime importance.

"Wherever people congregate, there is the greatest need for proper healthful ventilation," stated the Doctor yesterday. "With this in mind we have striven, through the installation of the most modern system of air conditioning, to produce the highest degree of pure atmosphere, lessening the risk of infection, checking the spread of epidemics, giving our patrons warmth without stuffiness, coolness without draughts and air to breathe which carries just the right amount of moisture, scientifically controlled."

CO-OPERATIVE BASIS

John D. Garrard has been appointed manager of the Atlas Theatre, and has been in charge of Dr. Preiswerck's interests in this connection for some time past. Under him works a well-chosen staff, each selected for special aptitude in his or her duties. It is interesting to note that the personnel works on a profit-sharing, co-operative basis, thereby giving every individual a proprietory interest in the welfare of the theatre.

In every detail the Atlas Theatre has been designed along modernistic lines, the result being one of the most up-to-date theatres in Western Canada today.

The dual entrance opens on to a lobby which is decorated in hues of "Sunshine and Blue," with a handsome tiled fountain against the further wall. To the right and left, stairs lead up to the ladies' restrooms and the projection rooms, while the way to the body of the theatre lies before you. The Atlas is unique in that there is no gallery, the back wall running sheer to the floor in order to give better sound effect.

Passing through the lobby, the visitor moves silently along a deep, rich carpet down the aisles, flanking which are comfortable, upholstered seats. Here it is worth while to pause and realize the scientific certainty with which the designers have precluded all echo or distortion of sound from the screen. Ceiling, back and panels of the walls are all of special acoustic plaster, while every pillar is so made as to distribute the sound evenly rather than give the slightest hint of echo.

There are 700 seats in the theatre, and the sound is uniform for everyone.

The walls and the trim of the stage are of gold and blue, shades which are tasteful in the extreme, cheerful without verging on the garish in any way. Concealed flood lighting gives soft illumination in every part of the building.

SIX FLOODLIGHTS

The exterior of the building is lit up with no less than six flood lights and with a huge Neon sign of hi-intensity blue, yellow and red. Heating is derived from a modern automatic coal stoker, thermostatically controlled.

Up in the projection room the equipment is the most modern and up-to-date procurable. The room itself is carefully insulated in order that no faintest sound of the machines shall reach the audience.

The highest standard of motion pictures will be presented by the management, and they have been fortunate in securing an attractive feature for the opening, "Old Man Rhythm," starring Charles "Buddy" Rogers.

LOCAL FIRMS DO FINE WORK

Contractors and Sub-Contractors Make Splendid Showing on Theatre

The Atlas Theatre, now completed and ready to open tomorrow has called on the best that architect, contractor and craftsmen could offer. Today it stands acknowledged as one of the most up-to-date in Western Canada, and is a credit to those to whom the design and construction were entrusted.

Following plans drawn by E. C. Clarkson, architect, the general contractor was W. D. Burnett. Lumber was secured from the Cameron Lumber Company, Limited, while all mill work was executed by the Moore-Whittington Lumber Company, Ltd. Painting and plastering was in the hands of McCandless & Bartlett, while electrical wiring, including the installation of the flood lighting and indirect illumination, was done by E. H. Emery. Plumbing throughout was executed by W. Pridham, tile work by Wm. O'Neil.

All sheet metal work, the air-conditioning plant and the automatic coal stoker was entrusted to the Pacific Sheet Metal Works, Ltd. Neon Products of Western Canada, Ltd., installed the big sign on the exterior. David Spencer, Ltd., supplied all carpets and drapes. Chairs were secured from The Globe Furniture Company, Waterloo, Ont. Sound equipment from the Dominion Sound Company, of Vancouver, and the projection units from the Theatre Supply Company, of Vancouver. All steel used in construction was from the Dominion Bridge Company, Vancouver, and the roofing from the Canada Roofing Company.

The judge of the Court of General Sessions at Melbourne has ruled that the manager of one of the world's largest shipping lines is not indispensable.

He was called upon to draw some fine distinctions as to what are "essential services" during the empanelling of a jury.

Here are some of his judgments:

He excused a suburban grocer from service because his shop would otherwise have to close.

He excused a milk roundsman because he had been working continuously since midnight.

He excused a laborer because there was apparently no one to do his job.

But there was no acceptable excuse for the shipping manager, although he said the port was full of shipping. "You do not have to be at the ship's side," said the judge. "You can delegate your work and stay here."

VETERAN OF SEA SERVICE

New Commander of Montrose Experienced in Both Sail and Steam

Enjoying his first trip to the St. Lawrence as commander of a passenger liner, Captain Charles Richardson, who is well known to Canada as former chief officer of the Duchess of Bedford and commander of the freighter Beaverford, is the new commander of the Canadian Pacific liner Montrose, which reached Montreal last week-end from Antwerp, Southampton and Cherbourg.

Captain Richardson, who has had long service with the Allan Line and the Canadian Pacific Steamships, was appointed to the rank of commander in 1934, going to the Beaverford. He has since commanded the Beaverdale, and he received the command of the Montrose during the past Winter season.

It was forty-two years ago that Captain Richardson first went to sea, as a young apprentice aboard the sailing ship Durham. After eight years "in sail" he moved to "steam"—really as the result of an accident. His ship, the bark Iranian, was wrecked off the Japanese coast and the crew was saved by a steamer. He stayed with steam ever since.

Captain Richardson joined his present service in 1907, when he went to the Tunisian as fourth officer. He served in many Allan Line ships during the succeeding years, gaining steady promotion. After the war period, with the Allan Line now merged in the Canadian Pacific Steamships, he saw service on several Canadian Pacific liners, including the Metagama and the Montcalm. In 1928 he was appointed chief officer of the Duchess of Bedford, then in her first year of service, remaining as "chief" of his liner until 1934, when he became staff-captain of the Empress of Australia. Shortly after his appointment as staff-captain he received his first command, going to the Beaverford as master during that Summer.

Final Cruise of Ship Before She Starts Voyaging

SOUTHAMPTON, May 14 (AP). — The Queen Mary, Britain's new super-ship, put out to sea today for a twenty-four-hour cruise along the south coast, probably its last trip before the maiden voyage to New York late this month.

ATLANTIC AIRPLANE SERVICE WILL SOON BE "COMMONPLACE"

NEW YORK, May 14 (AP).—Prediction that trans-Atlantic airplane service would be "commonplace" within five years was made today by Charles P. Graddick, superintendent of air mail service, in addressing the American Air Mail Society.

Position of British Yards Shows Big Improvement In Recent Months

The shipbuilding returns of Lloyd's Register for the quarter ending March 31, 1936, contain the welcome news that the total gross tonnage of the merchant ships of 100 tons gross and upwards under construction in Great Britain and Ireland, namely, 842,361, is not only greater by 99,275 tons than the figure for December 31, 1935, but exceeds the total for March 31, 1935, by as much as 286,546 tons. The aggregate for March 31, 1936, is, in fact, the highest quarterly figure recorded since December, 1930, and exceeds the combined total of the shipping under construction in the six leading countries abroad.

It must be added, however, that 232,523 tons of shipping were commenced in this country during the last three months, which figure represents a decline of 78,377 tons, as compared with the corresponding total for the December quarter. On the other hand, the tonnage launched increased from 132,139 tons in the December, 1935, quarter to 194,275 tons during the three months under consideration. The total of 842,361 tons, quoted above, is made up of 116 steamers aggregating 433,489 tons, eighty-nine motorships, making together 402,890 tons, and fifteen steel sailing ships and barges comprising 5,982 tons.

The tonnage under construction abroad on March 31, 1936, namely, 977,753 tons, was about 178,000 more than that in hand at the end of the previous three months. The positions of the four leading foreign shipbuilding countries are unchanged, and all have increased totals. That of Germany is 317,053 tons; that of Japan, 150,662 tons; that of Holland, 146,280 tons, and that of Sweden, 112,750 tons. The totals for all other countries were well below 100,000 tons.

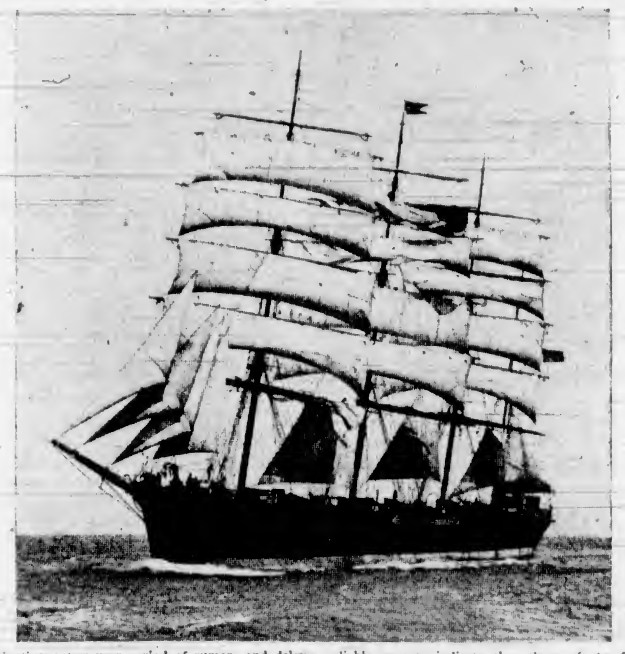

During the three months under review, 352,116 tons of shipping were commenced in overseas shipyards, and 202,401 tons were launched, showing, as compared with the previous quarter, an increase of 76,004 tons in the shipping commenced, but a decrease of 23,996 tons in that launched.

UNDER CONSTRUCTION

The vessels being built in the world at the end of March included two steamers and twenty-eight motorships of between 8,000 tons and 10,000 tons each; eight steamers and twenty-five motorships of between 10,000 tons and 20,000 tons; one steamer and one motorship of between 20,000 tons and 30,000 tons, and two steamers each exceeding 30,000 tons.

The total horse-power of marine engines either under construction or being installed on board vessels at the end of March 31, 1936, was 1,725,085. This was made up of 341,610 i.h.p., the total for reciprocating steam engines; 420,945 s.h.p., representing steam turbines, and 962,530 i.h.p., the aggregate for oil engines. Great Britain and Ireland occupied first place with 675,455 h.p. Germany retained second place with 304,318 h.p., Japan was third with 196,815 h.p., Sweden fourth with 109,772 h.p., and Holland fifth with 105,708 h.p. The only other country to approach 100,000 h.p. was Denmark, which was responsible for 81,580 h.p.—Engineering.

Now Getting Ready for Final Passage

Culminating a two-year period of rumors and delays, reliable reports indicate that three of the famous sailing fleet of the Alaska Packers, the Star of Lapland, the Star of Shetland and the Star of Holland, are soon due to sail from the Golden Gate to their final destination: a Japanese scrapheap at Osaka. The General Steamship Corporation, San Francisco, is reported to have been named as agent to load the ships with scrap metal, and it is said they will shortly be drydocked for their trip across the Pacific, and will be in Japan before the end of the Summer. Four vessels were purchased from the Packers by the Japanese interests, but only one has been delivered. She sailed from San Francisco on August 20 last.

AORANGI IN FROM SOUTH

Liner Arrived Overnight With Large List of Passengers Aboard

Bringing in one of the largest passenger lists to come this way in a long time, the Canadian-Australian motorship Aorangi, Captain T. V. Hill, commander, reached port overnight and proceeded to Vancouver at an early hour this morning. The liner had a total of 322 travelers in all classes aboard, many Australians and New Zealanders being on their way to England, while there were a number from Hawaii, bound for various destinations in the United States.

Sir A. G. M. Fletcher, K.C.M.G., accompanied by his secretary and aide, was a passenger en route from Suva to London. Other prominent travelers noted on the saloon list included Captain and the Hon. Mrs. L. C. Gamage, the former being a director of the British General Electric, of which Mrs. Gamage's father, Lord Hirst, is managing director.

Hampden Beaumont, of Sydney, an international figure in the wool market, was also a prominent passenger bound for Boston and London; while Major and Mrs. A. Murray Jones, the former being the Australian representative of the Dehavilland Aircraft Company, were also aboard.

Returning to Ottawa for a conference with overseas trade officials Colonel L. M. Cosgrove, Canadian Trade Commissioner for Australia, was also an arrival on the Aorangi, going through to Vancouver on his way East.

Among the British Columbians returning from touring on the big liner were Mr. and Mrs. DesBrisay, who had spent some time visiting in Sydney.

VANCOUVER SHIPPING

VANCOUVER, May 14 (CP). — Ms. Cape York is loading here for London and Newcastle, under charter to Blue Star Line. She arrived several days ago with a cargo of sugar from the Antipodes, under charter to Union Steamship Co. of New Zealand.

The British tramp freighter Ss. Nohata is in port loading scrap, logs and general cargo for Japan.

A total of 16,300 pounds of halibut was sold here today, 2,000 pounds chicken at 6.3 cents, 12,500 medium at 6.7, and 1,800 large at 6.

Ms. Balboa is expected to be back in commission tomorrow, after having her propellers removed for straightening at the Burrard Drydock at North Vancouver.

Her speed and efficiency were cut down considerably when her screws were bent while passing through Baltic Sea icefields this Spring.

The Balboa will load grain, lumber and general here for Northern Europe.

A sergeant in France took a young Cockney soldier to book for failing to salute General Sir William Birdwood as he passed.

"Didn't you know he was the General?" said the sergeant. "Couldn't you see?"

"No," said the soldier. "I couldn't. Why the blazes doesn't he wear some feathers on his head, like any other old bird would."

SAILING FOR ORIENT SIDE

Russia Away Tomorrow—Swiss Navy Now—Tokio To Be Seaport

Westbound for Orient ports, the Canadian Pacific Ss. Empress of Russia will be here for a short time tomorrow afternoon. The Russia has a total of 124 travelers for places on the other side of the Pacific. She will pick up passengers, mails and cargo at the local dock. Her time of arrival here from Vancouver is 4 o'clock, and her scheduled hour of departure for Yokohama, her first port of call, is 5:30 p.m.

No longer can anyone joke about "joining the Swiss navy." Reports from the Basle office of Thos. Cook & Son-Wagons-Lits, Inc., say that not only has Switzerland quite an impressive fleet of lake steamers, but she has actually joined the rank of seafaring nations. A new motorship, Albula, has been inaugurated for regular direct service between Basle and London via the Rhine route, and a sister ship, Bernina, will be launched shortly. Plans are already under way to extend the service to other ports.

TWO CANALS

The capital of Japan is to become a seaport. Nearly forty years ago it was proposed that Tokio should be linked with its port of Yokohama by a ship canal. The distance between the two cities is about nineteen miles.

It is expected that the work will take about eight years and cost about three million pounds. Actually there are to be two canals; the main channel for ocean-going ships and another one, parallel to it, for smaller vessels. The big canal will have a depth of thirty feet.

The vast amount of earth excavated in the construction of the two channels will be used for a land reclamation scheme in a Tokio suburb, where a new industrial area is to be established.

LEADER EXPELLED

According to advices from New York Vice-President David E. Grange, of the International Seamen's Union of America, announced a few days ago that Joseph Curran, chairman, and eighteen other leaders in an outlaw strike against ships in that port had been expelled from the Eastern and Gulf Sailors' Association.

Grange said the action would bar them from employment on ships of some eighty lines which signed contracts permitting the union to fill all crew vacancies. All the men are in the sailor class.

Curran was a leader in a crew strike at San Pedro in March against the Panama Pacific liner California, and later assumed leadership of the rank and file revolt at New York against the union's contract and its officers.

Unfair Competition Subject Of House Debate

LONDON, May 14 (AP).—New allegations that the United States with "unfair subsidization is wiping out our merchant marine in the Pacific" were made in the House of Commons today during a debate on the shipping situation.

Sir Herbert Cayser, Conservative, declared the only way of preventing the disappearance of British shipping from the Pacific was "for the British Government to join whole-heartedly with the Dominions in an endeavor to see if it could adopt measures to meet this unfair competition."

Will Be Governor of Trinidad

SIR A. G. M. FLETCHER, K.C.M.G.

TRANSFERRED to Trinidad from Fiji, where he occupied the position of Governor, as well as that of High Commissioner for the Western Pacific, since 1929, Sir A. G. M. Fletcher was an arrival on the Canadian-Australasian liner Aorangi here last night. He is on his way to England on furlough, and after holidays at home, will go to Trinidad to take over the duties of Governor there. His excellency entered the Hongkong Civil Service in 1901, occupying various positions subsequently. From 1926 to 1929 he was Colonial Secretary of Ceylon.

NET PLANS MADE BY DUNCAN CLUB

DUNCAN, May 14.—The Duncan Lawn Tennis Club held its official opening recently with every prospect of a successful season. Already thirty new members have joined and plans are being made for entering teams in the knockout series being arranged by the Vancouver Island Tennis Council. The usual tournaments will be held, beginning with an American handicap, May 25, which will be open to everyone. The annual open tournament date for this year has been fixed for August 12 to 15. This carries the Vancouver Island championship titles. The annual junior tournament, which grows in popularity every year, will be held August 24 to 27.

WEEKLY SHOOT

The Rainbow Sea Cadets Rifle Association will hold its weekly shoot tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at Macaulay Point Range.

B.N.A. AMENDMENTS BEFORE COMMONS

If the Dominion widened the taxation field of the provinces so as to give them partial control of the indirect field, for example, a sales tax, the Dominion would lose that jurisdiction, Mr. Bennett contended.

The Conservative leader was particularly opposed to one provision of the resolution which would give retroactive authority to the taxation change. This amounted to connivance at something now declared to be liberal.

The second part of the resolution, dealing with provincial guarantees, was unnecessary, Mr. Bennett declared, because the power already existed. It would injure Canada's credit and throw legal doubt on all guarantees to provinces and railways given in past years.

INSUFFICIENT REVENUES

The Justice Minister said: "We are forced by circumstances created through difficulties in which they (the provinces) find themselves and because they have not sufficient revenues without using the powers of taxation which we are conceding to them."

The provinces would receive the power of indirect taxation with regard to sales taxes on retail turnovers, with the exception of certain commodities upon which customs or excise taxes are at a high rate.

The Minister of Justice believed it was "the universal opinion in Canada that the system of loaning money to and piling debts upon the provinces by the Dominion must end." The amendments would enable the Federal Treasury to guarantee provincial loans and accept securities in return.

Mr. Cahan objected to such a wide transfer of taxation powers.

GUNMAN ADMITS ENTERING HOME

Quarrie said that he was not so concerned in getting it back as he was to recover a past master's jewel of the Masonic Order, which disappeared from his home at the same time.

OTHER CHARGES LIKELY

There will probably be other offences which the accused will have to face later. The home of Andrew Sheret, nearly opposite Mr. Todd's place, was entered on Wednesday night, evidently from a porch roof which gave access to a window. The upstair portion of the house was ransacked without the occupants of the home being aware of the fact that a robber was busy upstairs.

Miss E. Milloy is given great credit by the police for the manner in which she acted when she discovered that someone was upstairs in the Todd home. She gave no sign of revealing her knowledge to the invader, but took pains to notify the police and then go about her usual movements without causing alarm, thus assisting materially in the arrest.

Thirty-Five to Compete in Big Soap Box Derby

Thirty-five entries have been received for the third annual Soap Box Derby, to be run down Yates Street hill at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. It is sponsored by the Tourist Trade Development Association.

While the coaster race is in progress, police will keep Yates Street clear of traffic to the intersection of Cook Street.

HUMAN EXTINGUISHER DOES JOB PERFECTLY

MERIDIAN, Conn., May 14 (AP). — Answering an alarm, Deputy Fire Chief Arthur Harris and four companies of firemen found the owner of an automobile trying frantically to put out a fire around the carburetor of the car—without success.

Harris merely took a deep breath, bent over the engine and blew lustily into the flames. That ended the fire.

"I am very proud of my paintings," declared the artist. "I think I shall soon hold an exhibition of my work."

"Well, take my tip," commented the callous critic, "and see that you don't get rheumatism through sitting on the cold pavement."

At the Theatres

ROMANTIC DRAMA IS AT DOMINION

Margaret Sullavan Plays Leading Role in "Next Time We Love" —Good Plot

"Next Time We Love," starring Margaret Sullavan, is the offering which begins a three-day run at the Dominion Theatre today. Based on the novel by Ursula Parrott, the film has been produced by Universal as a modern romantic drama, with settings in New York, Russia, Siberia, China, Rome and Switzerland.

The story concerns a young couple, impulsively married, who try to pursue individual careers. The husband's wanderings around the world, the wife's longing, the love of another man for the wife . . . the tempestuous conflict of emotions against a background of threatening world upheaval . . . combine to make the narrative a stirring recital.

There is a play within a play, portraying Margaret Sullavan as the star of a hit on Broadway. The dialogue, preserving the rich qualities of the novel, has been given new treatment by the director, Edward H. Griffith, according to advance Hollywood bulletins.

PLAZA THEATRE "The Man Who Broke the Bank at Monte Carlo," 20th Century's sophisticated comedy, starring debonair Ronald Colman, is currently featured at the Plaza Theatre. Joan Bennett has the leading feminine role. Others prominently cast are Nigel Bruce, Colin Clive and Montagu Love. Production was under the personal supervision of Darryl Zanuck.

COLUMBIA THEATRE "Behind the Green Lights," Mascot's thrilling detective picture, now at the Columbia Theatre, with Judith Allen, Norman Foster and Sidney Blackmer featured, is heralded as the forerunner of a cycle of such films. Public interest in the men who bested Dillinger, Hauptmann and other criminals is given as the reason for Hollywood's sudden interest in sleuths.

CAPITOL THEATRE Margaret Sullavan, noted screen star, is cast, appropriately enough, in the role of a screen star in Walter Wanger's production, "The Moon's Our Home," now at the Capitol Theatre, with Henry Fonda, Henrietta Crosman, Charles Butterworth and Beulah Bondi featured in important roles. In "The Moon's Our Home," Margaret Sullavan portrays a tempestuous little spitfire, controllable only by a person equally fiery, her grandmother.

MUSICAL SHOW TO BE AT ATLAS TOMORROW

An up-to-the-second way of taking love off the gold standard provides the lively theme of RKO Radio's musical comedy, "Old Man Rhythm," opening tomorrow at the Atlas Theatre, with Charles ("Buddy") Rogers in the leading juvenile role.

The story involves the novel comic stratagems invented by a modern father to outwit a seductive gold digger and opens his son's eyes to the charms of a girl who really loves him.

Six songs by the well-known Broadway composer, Lewis Gensler, speeds the lively plot along.

LEO DELIBES' BALLET ON STAGE MAY 22, 23

The quaint tale of Leo Delibes' opera ballet "Coppelia" to be presented by the Victoria Civic Opera Association, with Dorothy Wilson as ballet mistress, at the Royal Victoria Theatre on May 22 and 23, is told by symphonic music, mime and dance.

In the first act, Swandilda, the village belle, is seen trying by her dancing to attract the attention of the mysterious stranger, a young girl, who sits all day in the window of the toy shop of old Coppelius, the toymaker. Franz, Swandilda's fiance, has been seen watching the fair damsel, and his lady love is jealous.

Franz, angry with his doubting sweetheart, also decides to make the further acquaintance of the lady in the window. He is about to climb up a ladder and enter the window when the old toymaker sees him. The curtain on Act I falls on the startled Franz running away from the furious Coppelius.

B.C. FINAL IS BILLED TODAY

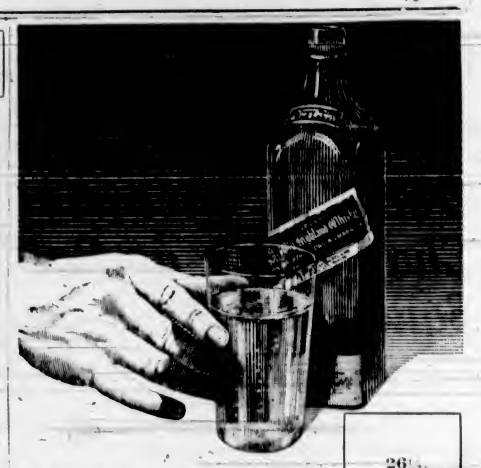

Mrs. S. C. Sweeney and Kay Farrell to Play for Golf Crown

VANCOUVER, May 14 (CP).—Two star shotmakers from the Jericho Golf and Country Club, Miss Kay Farrell and Mrs. S. C. Sweeny, both veterans of the links, will meet tomorrow on the rolling fairways and greens of Shaughnessy course to decide the British Columbia women's golf championship for 1936.

Mrs. Sweeny, who won her first British Columbia crown in 1905, gained the final bracket with a four-and-three victory over Mrs. R. Gelletly in today's semi-final play. She held the upper hand throughout, playing close to par to go three up on the first nine. Her medal count was 83, four over women's perfect figures.

Miss Farrell had a harder time with Katie Duff Stuart, of Shaughnessy. The Jericho clubwoman won the match, three and one, on the seventeenth.

WENSTOB BARRED BY FIGHT BOARD

Alberta Light-Heavyweight Blacklisted by Canadian Boxing Federation

MONTREAL, May 14 (CP). — The Canadian Boxing Federation tonight barred Eddie Wenstob, light-heavyweight fighter from Viking, Alta., from further competition until he fulfills his various obligations.

The commission, in annual meeting here, heard Wenstob had broken faith with English promoters and had also severed connections with his manager, Mike Kaplansym.

All commissions affiliated with the parent body will be notified Wenstob has been blacklisted by the C.B.F. The young fighter recently outpointed Charley Belanger, former Canadian light-heavyweight champion, in a Winnipeg bout.

The federation aligned the boxing championship roster as follows:

Flyweight—"Greggy" Greggerson, Montreal.

Bantamweight — Frankie Martin, Montreal.

Featherweight—Ray Cook, Toronto.

Lightweight—Tommy Bland, Toronto.

Welterweight — Gordon Wallace, Vancouver.

The middle, light-heavyweight and heavyweight classes were left open.

NANAIMO BRINGING STRONG XI FOR CUP MATCH

Decisive Victories Chalked Up as Ball Squads Open Season

Victoria Athletic Club and Silent Glows Triumph In Opening Softball Fixture — Bill Levy Crashes Out Initial Homer—Carr and Turner Pitch Good Ball

Victoria Athletic Club and Silent Glows triumphed yesterday evening as clubs in the "A" Section of the Lower Island Softball Association pried loose the lid from another season of diamond activity.

Playing at Bullen Park, the smartly-attired V.A.C. nine handed Brunsdon's Boys, last year's city and Vancouver Island champions, a 6-1 setback, while at the Royal Athletic Park, Silent Glows trounced the Jokers, 9-1.

Approximately 500 fans witnessed the opening fixtures, and judging by the brand of ball displayed, many interesting games will be witnessed, and a keen battle waged before the champions of the senior division are named.

Art Carr, youthful twirler, paraded to the hillock for the Victoria Athletic Club nine at Bullen Park and turned in a masterful performance, limiting the defending champions to four widely scattered bingles.

"Red" Palmer, ace moundsman in the Esquimalt camp, did the hurling for Brunsdon's Boys, and was nicked for nine safeties, some of which went for extra bases.

Victoria Athletic Club played smart ball behind the fine twirling of Carr, while Brunsdon's Boys failed to give Palmer the same good support.

After two scoreless innings, V.A.C. brought their guns into action in the third session and drove across a trio of markers before the home nine halted the offensive. The eventual winners added two more runs in the fifth, and completed their scoring in the seventh frame with a lone tally.

Art Carr blanked Brunsdon's Boys for seven innings, and appeared headed for the season's initial shutout, only to have the Esquimalt nine squeeze a single run over the plate in the eight inning.

Score by innings:

V.A.C. .... 003 020 100—6
Brunsdon's Boys .... 000 000 010—1

Batteries—Carr and M. McBride; Palmer and R. Dunnett.

Umpire—Pick and Watt.

SILENT GLOWS WIN

Hitting the ball hard in the pinches, Manager Frank Shandley's Silent Glows trounced the Jokers, 9-1, at the enclosure. The burnermen played good ball, offensively and defensively, and were always the better squad.

Husky Bill Teskey started on the hill for the Jokers and bumped into plenty of trouble from the Silent Glows, and after a sojourn of six innings he was replaced by "Kelly" Comerford, former Brundson's Boys' hurler. Teskey was touched for eleven base knocks, including Bill Levy's circuit drive to the centre-field fence, Rube Lamb's triple and "Chuck" Turner's double.

Comerford stemmed the burnermen's attack and held them to one run for the remainder of the fixture. He allowed one hit.

"Chuck" Turner, blond-thatched twirler, pitched four-hit ball for the Silent Glows, two of which came in the Jokers' last-inning rally. He fanned five.

Blanked for eight innings, the Jokers opened a belated rally in the ninth session, only to have it nipped in the bud after one run had crossed the plate. With two men on the bags and one down, Comerford hit a Texas leaguer which looked safe for a hit, but sensational fielding by Buzz Brown, who caught the ball and doubled a man on second, ended the fixture.

Score by innings:

Silent Glows .... 0 1 1 2 4 0 0 1 x—9

Batteries: Teskey, Comerford and Evans; Turner and Caddell.

Umpires: Stock and Waller.

MANY DANCERS EXPECTED TO COMPETE HERE

Tap Dancing Contest Carded At the Willows on May 25—Cup at Stake

Leading tap dancers in British Columbia are expected to compete in the contest to be staged at the Willows Park on Monday, May 25, in connection with the monster sports day and race meeting being arranged by the Victoria Day committee.

Proceeds from the event will be equally divided between the St. Joseph's and the Jubilee Hospitals and the Queen Alexandra Solarium. The five women's auxiliaries of the institutions, who have the sale of tickets in hand, report that the advance sale is particularly keen, and express their confidence that the meet will be witnessed by a record crowd.

CUP AT STAKE

The handsome Little & Taylor Cup will go to the winner of the tap dancing contest, and will be held for one year. A gold medal will accompany the trophy. Bronze medals, suitably engraved, will go to the second and third place dancers.

Entry forms for the event have been forwarded to the leading dancing academies in the province, and it is confidently expected a record list of entries will be received. Those wishing to enter may secure application forms at the office of the Empire Realty Company, Ltd., 1008 Broad Street.

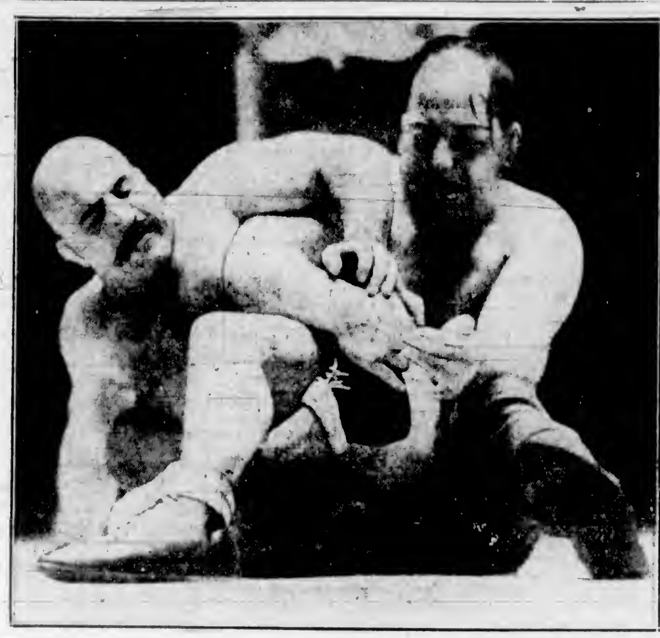

Miss Florence Clough, popular Victoria dancing teacher, has been placed in charge of this colorful event, and will be assisted by Captain J. G. Brown and W. H. Davies, general secretary of the committee.

Word was received yesterday from Lieutenant-Governor E. W. Hamber, stating that he would attend the meet. The Lieutenant-Governor's party will occupy a box in the grandstand.

His Honor also has consented to the race for thoroughbreds being named the Lieutenant-Governor's event.

Many handsome trophies will be at stake in the different events on the attractive programme, and some of them are now on display in the window of the Empire Realty Company, Ltd., Broad Street.

Ali Baba Again Whipping Dick Shikat

In 53 minutes and 36 seconds, Ali Baba, the mysterious Turk, pinned Dick Shikat's shoulders to the mat in a New York ring, thus confirming his earlier victory in Detroit. On the former occasion Ali Baba pinned Shikat to the mat, but nobody believed it when they read it in print. Even the sceptics were convinced after his second win. This is an unusual view of the match, showing Ali Baba (left) under pressure of a toe hold; sitting up, next to Dick Shikat, and trying to break the hold. They seem a bit mixed up, as to hands and feet.

THREE NEW PLAYERS WILL PLAY AGAINST LOCAL FOOTBALLERS

Up-Islanders Announce Starting Squad for Important Match Against Victoria City at Athletic Park Tomorrow Afternoon—Local Eleven Is Also Selected—Big Crowd Expected

A trio of new pieces of soccer material, two of them juniors and the other formerly with one of the strong Vancouver elevens, will be marched on the field tomorrow afternoon at the Royal Athletic Park, when Manager "Fat" Edmunds sends his Nanaimo City aggregation against Victoria City in the British Columbia semi-final of the Province Cup competition. T. H. Robb will handle the whistle and the kick-off will be at 2.45, with half an hour of overtime in order if the teams are deadlocked at the end of regulation time.

Manager Edmunds announced his line-up to The Colonist last night over long-distance telephone and stated at the same time that Nanaimo has a strong side and should return home with a victory. It has been some time since Nanaimo performed before Victorians and one of the largest crowds of the season is expected at the enclosure.

NANAIMO LINE-UP

Guarding the net for the visitors will be Pete Inkster, who has turned in smart displays this year, while in front of him will be "Fat" Edmunds and Orville Boyd, two experienced fullbacks, who should prove troublesome to Victoria's front line. Playing on the intermediate rank will be Billy Platt, formerly of Vancouver, at the right berth, while Jimmy Knight, captain of the squad, will be at centre-half and Sandy Thompson will complete the secondary line of defence.

Two juniors will be in control of the Nanaimo right wing combination. Al Parks will be on the outside lane and Art Denton will flank him on the inside position. Both these youngsters fit in with the front line in fine fashion, and, according to Manager Edmunds, they are fast, pack good shots and are extremely tricky. At the pivot position will be "Daisy" Waugh and at inside left will be "Uke" Gray. Patroling the left wing will be Bud Sandland. This is a speedy line of attack and if clicking it will continually worry the Victoria halves and backs. On the reserve list will be Gavin, West and McGregor and all three may see duty before the finish.

LOCAL TEAM NAMED

Victoria City will field a well-trained team, one which expects to force the Up-Islanders from the opening whistle. Wally Rowe, team captain, will be in his usual position between the uprights. Rollie Moody and John Roper, two towering backs, have been assigned to fullback work. This pair has been playing good ball of late and should give Goalie Rowe good protection. Cliff Robbins, Fred Gibbons and Dave Robertson will from the half line, while George Payne, Terry Peers, "Red" Tregallis, Jack Payne and Eddie Moore will complete the regular line-up. Tommy Smith, Cecil Dixon, "Pop" Sage and Lloyd Knapp will be the substitutes.

Macaulay Women To Play Tourney

Eighteen fair sex golfers will tee off in the monthly medal competition at the Macaulay Point Club on Saturday and Sunday, Freddie Burns announced yesterday. Players will make their own starting times and post entries will be accepted.

Pairings follow:

Miss N. Hocking and Mrs. C. Brown.

GOOD BOYS TO APPEAR HERE IN MAT BOUTS

Kitzmiller, Monahan, Stone, Smallinski, Newman and Thunderbird Booked

Fireworks and fast action are promised local wrestling fans tomorrow evening at the Tillicum gymnasium as Promoter Fred Richardson presents for the second successive week the mat game's newest sensation, the "battle royal."

With a trio of grapplers booked earlier in the week, the local matchmaker completed his card yesterday when he signed George Kitzmiller, rugged 200-pound Portlander; Gerry Monahan, Canadian squirmer from Toronto, and Glen Stone, former amateur champion, from Olympia, Washington.

"Cannonball" Kitzmiller, as he is known in Northwest mat circles, made his debut last week in a riotous bout with Frank Stojack, and after tearing the steps off the side of the ring, created a near-riot in a finish that had the fans on their toes. His return in this week's "battle royal" assures the fans of plenty of excitement.

CANADIAN RETURNS

Gerry Monahan, Toronto grappler, made his first appearance here two weeks ago and scored an unpopular victory over Rudy Strongberg, good-looking German exponent of the mat game. The Canadian used plenty of rough tactics, and literally punched his way to an odd-fall decision in a wild and exciting bout.

Glen Stone, shifty young Olympia squirmer, is well known to Victoria fans, and in his many previous matches has made many friends.

"Babe" Smallinski, Chief Thunderbird and Louis Newman are the other wrestlers named for the "battle royal," which, judging by the reception it received last week, is popular with local mat fans.

$10,000 VOTED FOR OLYMPIAD

Parliament Passes Large Sum to Assist Canadian Athletes

OTTAWA, May 14 (P)—Of $10,000 voted by the last Parliament to assist Canadian participation in the Olympic Games at Berlin this year, $5,000 has already been paid to the Canadian Olympic Committee, according to a return tabled by Hon. C. A. Dunning, Minister of Finance, in the House of Commons yesterday. The return indicated this financial support would be given to the full amount voted.

Vigorous protests have been received by the Government against official aid to the Canadian athletes, chiefly on the ground of Germany's policies towards minority racial and religious groups.

"Nazis persecuted Jews, Protestants and Catholics, preventing by direct or indirect means persecuted minorities from the opportunity to make the German Olympic team," wrote James A. MacKinnon of Edmonton. He suggested the grant of $10,000 "be refused."

Protests were also registered by the National Labor Council of Toronto, the Dominion Jewish Congress, and both the Montreal and Hamilton Trades and Labor Councils.

Gunning For His Fifteenth Fight Victory Tonight

NEW YORK, May 14 (P)—Pedro Montanez, sensational Spanish lightweight, will go after the fifteenth consecutive victory of his United States campaign when he clashes with Leonard Del Genio, rugged Harlem battler, here tomorrow night.

The boys are scheduled for ten rounds in Madison Square Garden. It will be Montanez' debut in the Eighth Avenue arena. Incidentally, he will receive 32 1-2 per cent of the gate, more than any non-champion has ever received before.

The betting favors the lad from Spain, but the experts are agreed he may run into plenty of trouble from the sturdy Del Genio, pride of Harlem's Italian colony.

A victory over the Italian tomorrow night will just about assure Montanez of a fight later in the Summer with the winner of the forthcoming title contest between Canzoneri and Lou Ambers, the hurricane from Herkimer, N.Y.

Winners at Colwood

Posting a card of 88-13—75, Mrs. James Macfarlane carried off "A" class honors in the monthly medal competition yesterday at the Royal Colwood Golf Club. "B" class went to Mrs. T. C. Moulds with a score of 107-32—75.

Fair Sex Showing How

The girls above have quite the professional style as they head the ball in a midfield tussle during the girls' football match between the Dagenham Dock Girls and the Hayes United team. The prize was the Marine Cup.

DUNCAN, May 14.—At the Cowichan Golf Club yesterday, Mrs. J. Longbourne was winner of the monthly medal competition for May, with a gross 99, handicap 18, net 81. Other competitors were Mrs. C. C. Wright, Miss D. Peterson, Miss I. Clark, Mrs. F. G. Aldersey, Mrs. B. Boyd Wallis.

DEMAREE DROPS FROM BAT RACE

(By the Associated Press)

The name of Frank Demaree was missing from the Big Six today as that Cub player failed to get a hit in yesterday's game after having gotten at least one single in sixteen straight encounters. Bill Terry dropped from .512 yesterday to an even .500 today, but he still remained on top of the standing with Billy Sullivan, of the Indians, in the second spot with 429, and Wilbur Brubaker, of the Pirates, third, with 408.

VANCOUVER ROTARY CAPTURES TROPHY

VANCOUVER, May 14 (P)—A four-man team of the Vancouver Rotary Club today held the Portland Cup, emblematic of Northwest Rotary golf supremacy.

Seattle's foursome was the runner-up, losing the main cup to the Vancouver team, but captured the Seattle trophy. Their team consisted of D. O. F. Lamson, C. L. Havens, H. F. Keeler and G. B. Butterworth.

Bill Scharfe, of Vancouver, won the net low score after a toss-up with Dr. Lamson and W. A. Luce, of Wenatchee, Wash. Scharfe carded a gross 82, less a handicap of 8, giving him a net 74; Dr. Lamson's gross was 86, less 12, for a net 74, and Luce scored a gross 87, less 13.

Declines Golf Trophy

LONDON, May 14 (P).—The Ladies' Golfing Union of Great Britain today definitely declined to adopt a United States suggestion that England hold the Curtis Cup, international women's golf trophy, for a part of the coming year.

The suggestion was made by the United States Golf Association after picked American and British women's teams played to a 4½ to 4½ draw at Gleneagles last week. The U.S.G.A. suggested that Britain and United States take turns holding the cup for the coming year.

"The L.G.U. appreciates most sincerely your most generous offer," the union cabled in reply, "but feel that as your team did not lose the match for the Curtis Cup it must return to your country."

NATIONAL LEAGUE

NEW YORK, May 14 (AP). — The New York Giants notched their fourth straight victory and handed the Chicago Cubs their fifth straight defeat today, as Carl Hubbell pitched five-hit ball to give the Terrymen a 5-0 triumph.

It was the first shutout of the season for the Giants and it was the third victory against three defeats for the ace of the Giant pitching staff. Among other things, Hubbell spiked Frank Demaree's hitting streak, which had carried through sixteen straight games.

For the fifth time in six starts, Lon Warneke failed to finish and he was charged with the loss of the game. He allowed only six hits, but he was wild, passes figuring in scoring in two innings.

Bill Walker went the distance on the mound for the Cards to record his third victory of the season. Four pitchers filed to the mound for the Dodgers in ineffectual attempts to stem the flow of base hits. Walker allowed nine singles.

Stuart Martin and Joe Medwick banged out homers for the Cardinals and Johnny Mize belted a brace of triples.

DETROIT, May 14 (AP).—Robert Moses Grove, left-handed ace of the Boston pitching staff, tamed the Detroit Tigers with five hits today for the second time this season, as the Red Sox won, 3-1, and took the series two games to one.

Elden Auker, Detroit "submarine ball" hurler, was the victim. He held the Sox sluggers to seven hits in the eight innings he worked, but two of them were damaging two-base drives against the right-field screen by Heinie Manush.

Grove, accounting for the forty-third victory over the Tigers in his career, struck out five batters and issued no walks.

Beavers Blank Padres

SAN DIEGO, Cal., May 14 (AP)—The Portland Beavers celebrated Earle Brucker Day by drubbing the San Diego Padres, 5 to 0, behind the sensational three-hit pitching of young Don French. Brucker, Portland catcher, is a San Diego resident. Portland holds a two-to-one edge in the series.

Trying New Race Curve

They've resurfaced the grueling motor speedway at Indianapolis for the first time in its history, and ironed out Calamity Corner, the turn where many a grease-streaked pilot has met death, in preparation for the annual 500-mile race on Memorial Day, May 30. The first two cars to try out the new turn are shown as they swept around. Car No. 12 is driven by Al Miller, and Chet Miller (no relation to Al) is piloting No. 18. Both will be in the driving classic.

RANKINE WILL REVEAL STOCK

Veteran Marathoner Will Be Tested in Miller Road Race On May 25

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., May 14 (CP).—The third annual Miller ten-mile road race here May 25 will do something more than reveal how the Olympic stock of Robert (Scotty) Rankine, of Preston Ont., should be rated. Race officials expect Rankine to face high-grade opposition.

Among the more prominent in the field will be Harold Webster, of Hamilton, British Empire marathon champion and several other distance stars. For both Rankine and Webster, the race may be in the nature of a tune-up for the Canadian Olympic marathon trial.

In the event he finds himself below 1935 form, when he was unbeaten in major competition, Rankine probably will concentrate at the 10,000 metres distance and leave marathoning alone.

The Aga Khan's Horse Favorite For Epsom Derby

LONDON, May 14 (CP).—Taj Akbar, the Aga Khan's bay colt by the St. Leger winner, Fairway, assumed the favorite role tonight in betting for the Epsom Derby, to be run on May 27.

Tonight's callover placed the Aga Khan's colt at 13 to 2, while Lord Astor's Pay Up, winner of the Two Thousand Guineas, and hitherto favorite for the Epsom classic, fell back to 15 to 2.

Lord Astor's other Mantion-trained colt, Rhodes Scholar, who ran a close second to Taj Akbar at the Epsom Spring meeting and finished fourth in the Guineas, was quoted at 9 to 1.

Sir Alfred Butt's Noble King was quoted also at 9 to 1, the Aga Khan's Mahmoud at 18 to 1, and the Maharaja of Rajpipla's Carioca, the Duke of Marlborough's Monument and the Aga Khan's Bala Hissar at 25 to 1.

BRITISH GOLF OPENS TODAY

Nine American Women to Seek Qualifying Places in Annual Meet

SOUTHPORT, England, May 14 (AP).—One hundred and thirty-four aspirants for the British women's golf championship, including nine from the United States, wound up their practice today in perfect weather and settled down to wait for the thirty-six-hole qualifying round to be played tomorrow and Saturday.

The sixty-four low scorers in the two-day qualifying round will start eighteen-hole match play on Monday, with the finals, at thirty-six holes, set for Friday. Defending the crown will be Wanda Morgan, twenty-six-year-old English girl.

Most dangerous of the invaders seem to be Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare, of Philadelphia, and Mrs. Maureen Crews, of Coral Gables, Fla.

The course is much smaller, with more tightly-trapped greens than Gleneagles, where the Curtis Cup matches were played, and calls for accurate full pitches to the flag with lots of "stop."

Britain's Polo Is Strengthened

WESTONBIRT, England, May 14 (AP).—Seeking the strongest possible combination, Great Britain's polo authorities today recruited the Rao Rajah Hanut Singh, eight-goal Indian star, for duty against the United States in the Westchester Cup international matches next month.

The Rajah's selection, following the delayed nomination of Gerald Balding, nine-goal ace, strengthens British hopes of capturing the trophy in the matches at the Hurlingham Club June 10, 13 and 20.

With H. H. Hughes at No. 1, Singh at No. 2, Balding at No. 3 and Eric Tyrell-Martin at back, the British can put a thirty-two-goal team on the field, compared with the probable thirty-one-goal American combination of Mike Phipps, Eric Pedley, Stewart Iglehart and Winston Guest.

MEETING TONIGHT

A meeting of the Royal Juvenile Athletic Association will be held tonight at 7:30 o'clock in The Colonist board-room. The purpose of the meeting is to organize a baseball league and to discuss roller hockey. Members of the executive are requested to attend.

Qualifying Round Set for Sunday—Draw and Times Announced

WITH last year's title-holder on hand along with the runner-up and several other strong contenders for the crown, a field of more than fifty golfers will start off bright and early Sunday morning in the eighteen-hole qualifying round for the Gorge Vale Club championship. Freddy Painter, young champion, is among the starters, and is confident of repeating his triumph of just twelve months ago, but he will have his hands full mowing his way through the field to the title again. H. H. Allen, the club captain, runner-up to Painter, will take another fling at the honors, while Walter Newcombe and a few others may have something to say about the whereabouts of the crown this year. Post entries will be accepted.

GOLF FACTS

NOT THEORIES

By ALEX MORRISON

Most of the kinks you feel in your swing are not caused by nerves or tense muscles. They are due to the well-known fault of too much right.

When your right hand takes charge of the swing, you will bend over too much, turn away from the ball, look your right side instead of relaxing it on the downswing, and a million other things. You or your audience will diagnose the hitch in your swing as coming from any one of the above errors. Seldom will you suspect the unruly right side.

You may think that I'm going to an extreme in blaming so much on the right side. Well, it isn't possible to put too much blame on the strong side, because all of the errors in your swing originate there. Some proof of this can be had in the following demonstrations—just swing very easily without trying to force the club. Note how the more obvious faults seem to be eliminated from your swing. They are really not eliminated, simply minimized through cutting down the right side.

Lawson Little To Pass Up British Open

CHICAGO, May 14 (AP).—A promise is a promise to W. Lawson Little, Jr., the newest business golfer—so he will pass up the tournament he would almost give an eye to play in, the British open, at Hoylake next month.

The failure of the former king of amateurs, who abdicated a month ago, to qualify for the national open tournament did his business build-up plans no good. A victory, or even a fair demonstration of the form that won him the British and American amateur titles in 1934 and 1935, in the British classic June 22-24, would have made everything all right again.

But, he has given his promise to play in a tournament at Toledo, June 25-28, so as much as he wants to go to England, the trip is "out."

How he happened to miss qualifying for America's open championship party at Baltusrol, June 4-6, still puzzled Little today, three days after his upset occurred at Hartford, Conn.

"I had my heart set on qualifying and doing a good job at Baltusrol," he said, ruefully, "and I should have done it."

Security Prices Move Upward at New York Mart

NEW YORK, May 14 (AP). — The stock market tossed off its lethargy today and swept forward over a broad front for net gains of 1 to 6 or more points in the best average gain in two months.

Such market leaders as United States Steel, up 2¾ at 59, Westinghouse, up 7 at 114, and American Telephone, up 5⅛ at 162, were the pace-setters. United States Steel was the most active issue of the day.

The recent drying up of selling combined with good earnings reports and favorable general business news to bring a burst of short covering at the opening. The rally which resulted levelled off during the middle of the session, but a last-hour advance saw prices finish at their best.

Volume was the best since April 30, at 1,395,230 shares, and compared with 585,890 on Wednesday, which was the smallest in more than a year.

Measured by the Associated Press average of sixty stocks, the market rose 1.6 points to 60.6, the largest rise for one day since March 14.

The bond market advanced over a fairly broad front under leadership of rails and utilities, in which group there were many gainers of 1 to 2 points.

French Government dollar bonds continued to outdistance other foreign loans.

BRAZILIAN TO PAY DIVIDEND

Directors Declare Return of Thirty Cents a Share—First in Four Years

TORONTO, May 14 (CP).—Directors of Brazilian Traction Light & Power Company declared a dividend of 30 cents a share today, the first cash dividend since May 1, 1932. The disbursement is payable July 15 to stock of record, June 5.

In September, 1932, the company voted a stock dividend of one share for fifty held. At that time and since restrictions on Brazilian exchange and the low milreis rate rendered difficult the transfer of funds from Brazil to other countries. The situation with regard to transfer of funds has improved slightly, it was learned today, but the directors decided to make the best of it and reward stockholders to some extent for their years of patience.

TORONTO MINES ARE STRONGER

Base Metals Lead Advance—Big Golds Close With Narrow Losses

TORONTO, May 14 (CP).—The balance of price adjustments was on the up side in the mining share market today, due to the strength of base metals on Noranda's leadership.

Noranda, reflecting earnings satisfaction, sold up 13 1-4 at 54 3-4. Hudson Bay trailed along with a point gain and the close was up for Falconbridge, Sudbury Basin, Sherritt, Pend Oreille and Ventures.

Narrow losses predominated in the big golds. Pioneer and Lakeshore and Hollinger were off 1-8 to 3-8 each. Dome firmed 1-2.

In the oils Texas-Canadian advanced 10 cents and Homestead lost 2.

WHEAT DROPS FRACTIONALLY

Futures Recede in Flurry of Selling at Winnipeg—Export Trade Light

WINNIPEG, May 14 (CP).—A pause in overseas demand for Canadian wheat unloosed a flurry of selling on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today.

Market action was reversed in the closing stages following declines of more than a cent. The downward trend reflected more favorable conditions in the United States Winter wheat belt.

At the close values were 3-8 to 5-8 lower, May at 77 5-8, July 78 1-8 and October 79 3-8 to 1-2 cents.

The amount set apart for shipment to the United Kingdom was estimated at only 250,000 bushels.

Apart from a small inquiry for oats in the cash-coarse grains section no material change in spreads was recorded.

THE TUTTS ... By Crawford Young

SUBURBAN HEIGHTS By GLUYAS WILLIAMS

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

TO STRAIN AT A GNAT AND SWALLOW A CAMEL

For thousands of years has this figurative phrase been in constant use, both in literature and in everyday speech.

To stir up turmoil and trouble over trifles the while passing over more important matters, to make a point of things inconsequential and at the same time remaining unheeding of those that count—this sort of failing is ages old and still, unfortunately, indulged in by man.

The colorful allusion is from the Bible, where it appears in St. Matthew xxiii:

"Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! for ye pay tithe of mint and anise and cummin, and have omitted the weightier matters of the law, judgment, mercy and faith: these ought ye to have done, and not to leave the other undone.

"Ye blind guides, which strain at a gnat, and swallow a camel."

(Copyright, 1936, by Bell Syndicate)

Jane Dixon Says:

HERE ARE THE PRIZE-WINNING LETTERS IN THE CONTEST FOR A SOLUTION OF THE ETERNAL TRIANGLE

The eternal triangle!

As old as the first unhappy love affair at the gates of the Garden of Eden.

As young as the shadows dimming the unhappy love affairs of this hour.

To each and every one of you who wrote such interesting and constructive solutions of the "eternal triangle"—two men and a woman or two women and a man involved in one of those heart-crushing problems to which there appears to be no answer—my sincere gratitude.

The writer of this column promised to send a cheque for $10 to the author of what, in her opinion, was the best answer to the triangle situation.

Immediately after the answers began pouring in, the writer realized that a selection of the best among so many first grade products was so difficult that it seemed recourse must be taken to the blindfold system—a blind over the eyes and a choice at random.

Eventually the choice narrowed down to two solutions which are based on essential truth and on originality.

Brevity of presentation was also considered.

As between the two authors who reached the finals there is no choice so far as the column is concerned.

In fairness to each, the $10 will be divided between the two of them, and a cheque for $5 sent to each.

Here are the selections:

THREE QUESTION MARKS

"Dear Miss Dixon: The eternal love triangle presents three distinct question marks from the three persons involved, and yet there can be only one right answer to the dilemma.

'Love was never meant to be three-sided. Real love is not, in the very nature of itself, three-part. If it's love, it's 'foursquare.'

"Sometimes, through carelessness, thoughtlessness, or by deliberate selfishness, one corner of the love square is worn down so that it loses its 'four-squareness' and becomes a triangle.

"The only solution, then, is to rebuild, if possible, the worn-down corner, or if there is nothing left upon which to build, wipe out the entire equation and begin all over again.—"Frances Neybours."

THE SECOND LETTER

"Jane Dixon: "No matter how a woman decides in the matter of her eternal triangle, she will look back and wonder if it could not have been done better another way.

'Perhaps it is the 'Lot's Wife' in us.

"Even in her buying she will return home to sit and ponder if the 'black one' wouldn't have been better.

"Nor do most women want to use the advice they seek. It is the talking it over that really counts.

"So, Miss Dixon, no matter what you tell a woman about her indecision between two men, she will do exactly as she feels at the moment, then run across the hall or out to the fence and ask her dearest friend what she would have done under similar circumstances—not that the questioner cares in the least, but just that she gets an emotional kick out of talking it over.—Christine Rose."

CERTAIN TO FIND HAPPINESS

You will recognize the sound logic in the "four-square" solution and the clarity with which this couplet of words presents the answer.

And I hope you will enjoy the humor in the second solution which is truth, too, shining through a smile. A sense of humor is a priceless gift to which even the knottiest of eternal triangles may be made to yield.

Congratulations, Frances Neybours and Christine Rose.

Two such sound young women are certain to find happiness in life and in love.

AMALGAMATION DECIDED UPON

Mount Stephen Athletic Club And V.A.C. Join Forces—Auditorium Delayed

While delaying any definite action in connection with the building of the proposed $6,000 auditorium to house all indoor sports, the Mount Stephen Athletic Club and the Victoria Athletic Club decided to join forces yesterday evening at a meeting of the V.A.C. held at the Elks Club.

Constable Louis Callan, matchmaker and manager for the Mount Stephen Club, announced the club's willingness to join hands with the recently organized Victoria Athletic Club in the furthance of sport in the city.

Discussion on the building of an auditorium on Haultain Street, between Mount Stephen Avenue and Cedar Hill Road was held, but the meeting decided to table the matter until the next meeting of the Victoria Athletic Club. Costs of the proposed sports centre were outlined by Messrs Newby and Harrison.

TO CONTINUE SHOWS

For the time being at least, it was decided to continue with the outdoor boxing and wrestling shows, which became so popular last Summer.

Harold Tait announced that considerable data on the operation of a baseball school had been received from Seattle and Los Angeles, and everything was ready for the school to be conducted here this Summer. The V.A.C. will supply instructors with all juvenile clubs during the Summer months.

An important meeting of the sports committee of the Victoria Athletic Club will be held this evening at Wachter's newsstand at 8 o'clock.

The V.A.C. softball club will hold a workout Sunday morning at Victoria West Park at 10 o'clock. All players are asked to attend.

TO MEN AND WOMEN OF ALL AGES—ESPECIALLY THOSE OVER FORTY

Come out of the Shadow of ill-health and nerves into the Sunshine of renewed Vitality!

Lack of energy, 'nerviness', depression, headaches, digestive trouble, inability to sleep refreshingly, are commonly due to one root cause: —DEVITALIZATION.

Because your Vital Force has run down, every physical function is sluggish, your nerves 'can't stand anything', you wonder how anyone finds life worth living.

Yet all you need to turn your sadness into gladness is restoration of your reserves of physical and mental energy. In other words: Start taking 'PHYLLOSAN' tablets to-day!

Medical tests, and the personal experience of men and women all over the world, have shown that 'PHYLLOSAN' tablets increase the physical and vital forces of the body.

They enrich and invigorate the blood, strengthen the nerves, speed up the replacement of worn-out cells, increase appetite, and build up reserves of vital power, so that your whole body is super-charged with vigorous vitality.

'PHYLLOSAN' tablets are prepared under the direction of E. Buergi, M.D., Professor of Medicine at Berne University.

Just two tiny tablets three times a day before meals. So simple! Take them regularly. The results will highly encourage you. Instead of being weary, languid and depressed, you will be full of vitality and energy—happier and brighter in every way. 20

Splendid Results Within a Month!

"'PHYLLOSAN' tablets have made a new being of me. A year ago, as the result of a nervous breakdown, I was a complete wreck. I seemed lifeless and depressed until one day I saw your advertisement for 'PHYLLOSAN' tablets. So I tried them and can honestly say there was a splendid result within the first month. I have recommended them to several friends and they do not fail."
(Miss) A. T.

Restored to Health and Energy

"I suffered with nerves for over two years. But after taking 'PHYLLOSAN' tablets for three months I am quite restored to health and energy. Mine was an extreme case."
(Mr.) F. M. G.

That Body of Yours

(By James W. Barton, M.D.)

NOISE TIRES US MENTALLY AND PHYSICALLY

One of our large cities is trying to get rid of indoor and outdoor noises and yet be fair to all citizens.

In order to find out just what kind of noises were disturbing and irritating, they asked the citizens to send their complaints for consideration. Many complainants did not send in their names, but just as many were only too willing to identify themselves with their complaints.

The complaints dealt with the barking of dogs, the yowling of cats, the crowing of roosters, the use of radios, noises from street cars, train whistles and motor cars, broken-down trucks, children playing on the streets until 9 o'clock at night, the raucous bellowing of newspaper boys in the downtown sections, the use of the telephone for advertising purposes, chimes which disturbed the rest of visitors in local hotels and finally, gay parties which kept people awake.

Action to get rid of objectionable noises included rubber shoes for milkmen, rubber baskets to carry milk bottles, rubber shoes for horses, rubberized wheels for street cars, tarvia for street car tracks.

As 75 per cent of the people had no refrigeration, night delivery of milk was shown to be necessary. Getting rid of noise is going to take time and thought. Milk and other necessities must be delivered, dogs and cats must have some life, radios are a part of a home life, street cars, trucks and motor cars are absolutely necessary in this civilization.

However, noises can now be measured, and if police or other officials are equipped with these machines for measuring the degree of noise there is no question but that noise would and could be cut down to a very great extent.

As mentioned before in speaking about the noise problem, noise definitely tenses us so that we can't do mental work as thoroughly—our efficiency may be lessened as much as 35 per cent. Noise likewise tires us physically, because when the ear is struck by noise it notifies the brain and the brain sends word to the muscles to be "prepared" for trouble. The muscles then immediately become tensed and do almost as much work as if we were really working.

A contractor was at the fountain-pen counter making a purchase. "You see," he said, "I am buying this for my wife."

"A surprise, eh?"

"I'll say so. She is expecting a cat."

Little Stories for Bedtime

Old Man Coyote Grows Curious

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

"Ha!" said he to himself. "Old Granny Fox has just been along here"

Granny Fox is not the only one who has learned the ways of Blacky the Crow. No, indeed? Old Man Coyote is quite as smart and sharp as she. In fact, he is just a wee mite smarter and sharper, as Granny found out shortly after he came to the Green Meadows to live, though she never would admit it and won't now. Old Man Coyote knows just as well as she does that when Blacky gets excited and caws at the top of his lungs there is usually something going on worth looking into. So whenever he hears Blacky he stops to listen, and if Blacky seems very much excited he takes the trouble to find out what it is all about.

Now, at the time when Granny Fox was trotting down the Lone Little Path and first heard the excited cawing of Blacky the Crow deep in the Green Forest, Old Man Coyote had just stretched himself out for a sun bath on the Green Meadows, not far from edge of the Green Forest. Just as Granny Fox had done, he pricked up his ears at the first sound of Blacky's voice and listened.

"When Blacky caws like that he sees something quite unusual, and when there is anything unusual going on it pays to know all about it. It may be no business of mine, and I may have a long walk for nothing, but then again I may find out something worth knowing. Blacky is as great a mischief maker as his cousin, Sammy Jay, but he sees all that is going on on the Green Meadows and in the Green Forest, and though he has made trouble for me more than once he has gotten me out of trouble just as many times by giving me warning. I'd a lot rather take a nap now, but I guess I'll have a look and find out what has got into that black scamp."

Old Man Coyote yawned, then he stretched, yawned again, listened for a few minutes, and finally trotted off into the Green Forest in the direction from which Blacky's voice sounded. Now, just like Granny Fox, Old May Coyote always keeps his eyes wide open. And he always uses his nose. He learned when he was a very little fellow that his nose can often tell him a lot more than either his eyes or his ears. So as he trotted through the Green Forest he was using eyes, ears and nose, and it was his nose that give him the first news. He was trotting along so softly that he didn't make a sound when quite suddenly he stopped and wrinkled up his nose to sniff.

"Ha!" said he to himself. "Old Granny Fox has just been along here. She has heard that fuss Blacky is making and she is on her way to see what it is all about. I think I will hurry a little faster."

So Old Man Coyote hurried a little faster, and though Granny Fox didn't know it, he was right behind her when she reached the place where Blacky was making such a fuss. He saw just what Granny saw, Peter Rabbit dodging this way and that way, with Reddy Fox right at his heels, and, just like Granny, he made up his mind right away that he would take a hand in the game, for he is just as fond of rabbit for dinner as is either Granny or Reddy Fox. He grinned to himself, and it was an unpleasant grin, for he knew that all he had to do was to show himself to have the chase of Peter all to himself. You see, Reddy and Granny Fox are afraid of him, and he didn't have the least doubt that he could catch Peter, now that he was so far away from the dear Old Briar Patch. He was just getting ready to spring out when Peter stopped dodging and started lipperty-lipperty-lip for a big pile of brush. In a twinkling the white patch on the seat of Peter's trousers disappeared under the big pile of brush, and there stood Reddy and Granny Fox staring at each other and looking very, very foolish. Old man Coyote chuckled. He couldn't help it.
